

Content

Abbreviations and bibliography 7

1. Introduction and acknowledgments 21

(Jaromír Krejčí)

2. Architecture and archaeology of AC 26 and AC 32 25

(Jaromír Krejčí)

- 2.1. Location 25
- 2.2. Description and architecture of Tomb AC 26 26
 - 2.2.1. Size 26
 - 2.2.2. Superstructure 26
 - 2.2.3. Substructure 30
 - 2.2.4. Open courtyard (space AC26-13) and a shed (room AC26-12) constructed in its southern part 38
 - 2.2.5. Construction materials and techniques 41
 - 2.2.6. Architectural evaluation of Tomb AC 26 42
- 2.3. The archaeological excavation of Tomb AC 26 and its evaluation 43
 - 2.3.1. Season 2006 44
 - 2.3.2. Season 2008 48
 - 2.3.3. Season 2009 58
- 2.4. Excavation of additional mud brick structures AC 32 and their evaluation 60

3. Finds (Old Kingdom contexts) 65

(Jaromír Krejčí)

4. Ceramic finds 71

(Katarína Arias Kytnarová)

- 4.1. Introduction 71
- 4.2. Methodology 73
- 4.3. Archaeological context of the ceramic finds 75
 - 4.3.1. Substructure areas of mastaba AC 26 76
 - 4.3.2. Cultic instalments of mastaba AC 26 91
 - 4.3.3. Areas outside of mastaba AC 26 proper 102
 - 4.3.4. Late Old Kingdom structures AC 32 103
- 4.4. Typological observations and catalogue of the ceramic corpus 106
 - 4.4.1. Abusir Ceramic Classification system 106
 - 4.4.2. Class J – Jars 108
 - 4.4.3. Class B – Bowls 128
 - 4.4.4. Class F – Bread forms 175
 - 4.4.5. Class S – Stands 192
 - 4.4.6. Class P – Platters 210
 - 4.4.7. Class M – Miniature vessels, models and miniaturized vessels 227
 - 4.4.8. Class L – Lids 250
 - 4.4.9. Class D – Mud stoppers 251
 - 4.4.10. Class T – Tools 253

- 4.5. Conclusions 254
- 4.6. List of Abusir South and Center ceramic classes and groups 256

5. The builders' inscriptions and masons' marks from the mastaba of Werkaure (AC 26) 261

(Hana Vymazalová)

- 5.1. The inscriptions and marks 261
 - 5.1.1. The serdab 262
 - 5.1.2. The corridor and the chapel 266
 - 5.1.3. The core masonry to the west of the corridor and the chapel 266
 - 5.1.4. The horizontal part of the access corridor (rooms AC26-6 and 7) 267
 - 5.1.5. The south-west part of the construction pit (room AC26-9) 268
 - 5.1.6. The so-called false shaft (room AC26-11) 269
 - 5.1.7. The transverse wall in the construction pit 270
 - 5.1.8. The north part of the construction pit 271
 - 5.1.9. The outside walls of the mastaba 271
 - 5.1.10. The inscriptions on loose-blocks 272
- 5.2. The name of the tomb owner 275
- 5.3. Dates 276
- 5.4. Titles of officials 277
- 5.5. Personal names 278
- 5.6. Names of places and monuments 279
- 5.7. Construction marks 280
- 5.8. Builders' marks of the gangs and phyles 281

6. Plant macroremains from the Old Kingdom mud brick construction of the Werkaure tomb. Results of carpological and xylotomical analyses 283

(Adéla Pokorná, Jaromír Benes)

- 6.1. Introduction 283
- 6.2. The mud brick, its manufacture, taphonomy and use in ancient Egypt 284
- 6.3. Aims of the study 285
- 6.4. Material and methods 285
 - 6.4.1. The samples 285
 - 6.4.2. The analyses 286
- 6.5. Results 286
 - 6.5.1. Seeds/fruits 287
 - 6.5.2. Wood/charcoal 290
- 6.6. Discussion 290
 - 6.6.1. Crops 290
 - 6.6.2. Wild plants 290
 - 6.6.3. Differences between individual samples 291
- 6.7. Conclusions 293

7. Conclusions 295

(Jaromír Krejčí)

- 7.1. The owner of Tomb AC 26 295
- 7.2. The dating of Tomb AC 26 297
- 7.3. Conclusions regarding the additional structures AC 32 298