

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments.....	xiii
Note on the Method of Citation .....	xvii
List of Abbreviations.....	xix
Introduction .....	1
I. Addressing Some Critical Conceptual and Methodological Issues .....	6
A. Defining the Rights of Victims in Criminal Procedures Analysed in this Work.....	6
B. Delineating my Approach to This Matter .....	8
C. Identifying and Discussing the Legal Frameworks Used in This Work.....	10
II. The State of Customary International Law on This Subject.....	11
III. Why the Current State of Customary International Law on This Matter is Inadequate .....	12
A. Legal Bases and Rationales for Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures.....	12
i. The Approach of International Human Rights Treaty Monitoring Bodies to Several Closely Related Matters.....	12
ii. Internationally Recognised Human Rights and Principles.....	14
iii. Other Rationales .....	16
B. Observance of the Principles that Inform the Enforcement of Criminal Law in Democratic States.....	19
C. Other Reasons Why the Current State of Customary International Law on This Subject is Inadequate .....	20
D. Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Proceedings Conducted in Situations of Mass Serious Human Rights Violations .....	21
IV. Assessing the Significance of Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures.....	22
Chapter I Conceptual Framework.....	23
I. The Concept of Serious Human Rights Violations .....	23
II. The Concept of Victim.....	25
III. The Legal Status of the Decisions of Human Rights Treaty Monitoring Bodies in Individual Cases.....	27

A. Practice of the UN Human Rights Committee .....	28
B. Approaches by Scholars.....	30
C. Approach Adopted in This Work.....	33
Chapter II Procedural Obligations of States in the Field of Criminal Justice
When Faced with Serious Human Rights Violations .....	37
I. Features of States' Procedural Obligations When Faced with Serious
Human Rights Violations Generally.....	38
A. Legal Sources and Rationales.....	38
i. Case Law of United Nations and Regional Human Rights Treaty
Monitoring Bodies .....	40
B. The Nature of States' Obligation to Investigate.....	55
C. Content of States' Procedural Obligations .....	58
D. The Objectives of Criminal Procedures for Serious Human Rights
Violations.....	60
E. Scope Ratione Personae .....	62
i. United Nations Human Rights Instruments and Bodies .....	62
ii. Case Law of Regional Human Rights Treaty Monitoring Bodies.....	65
iii. Conclusion.....	69
F. Conclusions of this Section .....	70
II. States' Procedural Obligations in Situations of Mass Serious Human Rights Violations.....	71
A. The State of Customary International Law .....	72
B. Assessing States' Compliance with Their Obligations under General
Human Rights Treaties and Certain Subject Specific International Conventions.....	79
i. Why Balance the Goal of Prosecuting Those Responsible for International Crimes and Serious Human Rights Violations with Other Objectives of Societies in Transition?.....	79
ii. Conditions to be Met in Order that a State Can Refrain from Prosecuting Those Responsible for International Crimes and Serious Human Rights Violations .....	84
iii. Legal Grounds that a State May Invoke for Adopting a Conditional Amnesty Scheme.....	86
iv. Requirements that Prosecutions Should Fulfil.....	93
v. The Need for Non-Prosecution Measures to Supplement
Prosecutions .....	93
C. Conclusions of this Section .....	95
III. General Conclusions.....	95
Chapter III The Status Under International Law of the Rights of Access to
and Participation in Criminal Proceedings Before Domestic Courts for
Victims of Serious Human Rights Violations .....	99
I. The Approach of United Nations Instruments and Monitoring Bodies.....	101

A.	The Approach of United Nations Treaties and Their Monitoring Bodies.....	101
i.	The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights .....	101
ii.	The UN Convention against Torture .....	103
iii.	International Instruments Proscribing Forced Disappearance.....	104
iv.	Other International Conventions .....	105
B.	United Nations Instruments Other Than Treaties .....	106
i.	The UN Declaration for Victims of Crime .....	106
ii.	The Basic Principles and Guidelines on the Right to a Remedy and Reparation for Victims.....	107
iii.	The Set of Principles on Combating Impunity .....	109
C.	Conclusions.....	110
II.	Case Law of Regional Human Rights Treaty Monitoring Bodies.....	111
A.	The Inter-American System for the Protection of Human Rights.....	112
i.	Victims' Right to Resort to the Administration of Justice to Obtain an Investigation and, if Warranted, that Those Responsible are Prosecuted and Punished.....	112
ii.	Victims' Right to Participate in Criminal Proceedings.....	117
iii.	Discussion .....	118
iv.	Conclusions .....	121
B.	The European System for the Protection of Human Rights .....	122
i.	Victims' Rights in Criminal Proceedings Recognised by the ECtHR When Assessing Compliance with the State's Procedural Obligations When Faced with Serious Human Rights Violations.....	122
ii.	Do Victims of Serious Human Rights Violations Enjoy the Right to a Fair Hearing in Criminal Proceedings? .....	127
iii.	The Implementation of States' Procedural Obligations When Faced with Serious Human Rights Violations .....	129
iv.	Conclusions .....	130
C.	The African System for the Protection of Human Rights.....	131
i.	The Right to an Effective Remedy.....	132
ii.	The Right to a Fair Hearing.....	132
iii.	Conclusions .....	133
III.	The Divide between the Common Law and the Civil Law Traditions.....	134
A.	The Premises and Features of the Common Law Tradition .....	134
B.	The Premises and Features of the Civil Law Tradition .....	135
C.	Features of Current Approaches in Common Law and Civil Law Jurisdictions.....	137
D.	Conclusions.....	141
IV.	General Conclusions.....	142
Chapter IV Reappraising Access to and Participation in Criminal Proceedings
	for Victims of Serious Human Rights Violations.....	147
I.	The Legal Bases and Rationales for Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures for Victims of Serious Human Rights Violations.....	148

A. The Approach of International Human Rights Treaty Monitoring Bodies to Several Closely Related Matters.....	148
B. The Right to an Effective Remedy.....	149
C. The Right to a Fair Hearing.....	152
D. Contribution to Effective Human Rights Protection and to Reaffirmation of the Principle of the Rule of Law .....	159
II. Other Rationales for Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures.....	161
A. Recognising Several Legitimate Interests of Victims in the Criminal Procedures for Serious Human Rights Violations.....	162
i. Delimiting the Legitimate Interests of Victims in Criminal Procedures for Serious Human Rights Violations .....	166
B. Contribution to Victim Perception of the Fairness and Legitimacy of Criminal Procedures.....	170
III. Addressing the Arguments Against Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures.....	171
A. Observance of the Public Interest Criteria that Inform Decision-Making in Criminal Procedures in Democratic States.....	171
B. Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures Reaffirm the Objectives of Criminal Tribunals .....	172
C. Victim Participatory Rights in Criminal Procedures Can be Reconciled with a Criminal Justice System Based on Retribution .....	173
D. Victim Participation in Criminal Procedures is Consistent with the Presumption of Innocence of the Defendant.....	174
E. Psychological Effects of Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures Pursuant to the Rights Identified in this Monograph.....	175
IV. Implementing Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures Conducted in Situations of Isolated Serious Human Rights Violations.....	190
A. The Investigation Phase.....	190
B. The Trial Phase.....	194
i. The Right to be Heard.....	194
ii. The Rights to Offer, Examine and Challenge Evidence at the Trial.....	200
V. Conclusions.....	202
Chapter V Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Proceedings Conducted in Situations of Mass Atrocity.....	207
I. Victims in the Proceedings before International and Hybrid Criminal Tribunals .....	208
A. Victims in the Proceedings before the ad hoc International Criminal Tribunals.....	208
B. Victims in the Proceedings before the International Criminal Court .....	210
C. Victims in the Proceedings before the Hybrid Criminal Tribunals .....	212
i. The Hybrid Courts in Kosovo.....	213
ii. The Special Panels in East Timor.....	216

iii. The Special Court of Sierra Leone.....	217
iv. The Special Chamber in the State Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina.....	217
v. The Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia.....	220
vi. The Special Tribunal for Lebanon .....	223
D. Conclusions .....	224
II. Why Allow Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Proceedings Conducted in Situations of Mass Atrocity? .....	225
III. Addressing the Arguments against Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Proceedings Conducted in Situations of Mass Atrocity.....	229
IV. Implementing Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Proceedings Conducted in Situations of Mass Atrocity.....	233
A. Should Victim Participation in Criminal Proceedings Carried out in Situations of Mass Atrocity Take Place Only through a Legal Representative?.....	233
B. Content of Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Proceedings Conducted in Situations of Mass Atrocity .....	238
i. Victim Rights at the Investigation Phase.....	238
ii. Victim Rights at the Trial Phase.....	249
iii. Steps Needed for the Recognition of these Victim Rights.....	252
C. The Scope of Victims' Legitimate Interests in Criminal Proceedings Conducted in Situations of Mass Atrocity.....	252
D. Need for Additional Measures for the Effective Implementation of Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Proceedings Conducted in Situations of Mass Atrocity.....	256
V. Conclusions.....	259
Chapter VI General Conclusions.....	263
I. The Main Findings and Submissions of This Work.....	263
A. The State of Customary International Law on This Matter .....	263
B. Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures for Serious Human Rights Violations From the International Law and Normative Perspectives .....	264
C. Implementing Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures for Serious Human Rights Violations .....	268
i. Criminal Procedures Conducted in Situations of Isolated Serious Human Rights Violations .....	268
ii. Criminal Procedures Conducted in Situations of Mass Atrocity .....	269
D. The Significance of Victim Access to and Participation in Criminal Procedures for Serious Human Rights Violations .....	270
II. The Implications of the Findings of this Work.....	271
 Bibliography.....	 275
 Index.....	 307