

Contents

List of Chapters and Illustrations

Section One—The History of Letters		PAGE
I. From the Beginning up to the Greeks		1
Norse rock-tracing - American Indian pictograph - Sumerian word-pictures - Chinese word-pictures - Egyptian word-pictures - Cartouche of Ptolemy with explanatory diagram - Egyptian hieratic script - Egyptian demotic script - Comparison of hieroglyphs with hieratic and demotic symbols - Cretan symbols - Phoenician alphabet - Classic Greek alphabet - Greek current writing.
II. The Roman Contribution		9
The Trajan capitals - Square capitals - Rustica - "Older" Roman current writing - "Later" Roman current writing - Slanted-pen uncials - Straight-pen uncials - Half-uncials.
III. Runes and the National Hands		19
Three lines from the Codex Runicus Arnomag - The "Futhark" alphabet - Irish half-uncials - Anglo-Saxon writing - Merovingian writing - East Frankish writing.
IV. The Carolingian Minuscule; Arabic Numerals		27
Lines from Otfrid's Book of Gospels - Lines from the Prüm Gospels - Early Indian numerals - Eastern Arabic numbers - Western Arabic numbers - Eleventh century European numbers - Later European numbers - Claude Garamont, 1545.

V. Gothic Letters and Types 35

Lines from a twelfth-century manuscript - Thirteenth-century book hand - Fourteenth-century book hand - The severe Gothic letter, fifteenth century - Twelfth-century Gothic initials - Thirteenth-century capitals - Typical fourteenth-century capitals - Fifteenth-century capitals - The Albrecht Dürer capitals, sixteenth century - Tagliente's filigree initials - Rotonda, Italian-area book hand - French-area Gothic current-cursive - German-area current-cursive - Everyday hand from the English area - Lines from the "Gutenberg" Bible - Lines from the Fust and Schoeffer Psalter - Half-Gothic from Ratdolt's specimen sheet, 1486 - Johann Bämmler's schwabacher, 1474 - Transition to fraktur, Hans Schönsperger, 1514 - Chart of style difference - Sigmund Feyerabend's fraktur, 1566 - Hans Kilian's fraktur script, 1545 - Lines of Robert Granjon's Civilité - Initials and script after Möller, 1645 - Lines from a manuscript book, Johannes Boehland, 1924 - Specimen of the Wilhelm Klingspor type - "Original" schwabacher - Ehmcke fraktur - Unger fraktur - Legende.

VI. Humanistic Writing and Its Influence on Type 64

Lines of Humanistic book hand - Humanistic current-cursive - Wendelin of Speyer's half-Gothic type - Second type used by Sweynheim and Pannartz - The Nicolas Jenson type - The Aldus type - Erhard Ratdolt's roman - The Aldus italic - Arrighi's second italic type.

VII. The Sixteenth Century 80

Part 1: - Dürer's classic capitals - Cancellaresca, Vespasiano Amphiareo - Cancellaresca formata - Cursive initials - Lettera Napolitana - Mercantile Milanese - Bastarda, Francisco Lucas - Redondilla, from Lucas - Antiqua "type" and Griffo "italic" as written by Lucas.

Part 2: - Simon de Colines's roman - Robert Estienne's roman - Antoine Augereau's roman - Type used by Christopher Plantin - Italic used by De Colines "Canon de Garamond," from the Egenolff sheet - "Petit Canon de Garamond" - Granjon's italic.

VIII. The Influence of Engraving and the Pointed Pen 103

Part 1: - Example of ronde - "Lettre italienne bastarde" - Coulée - "Italian" hand as used by Ambrosius Perlingh - Capitals in the Dutch style - An example of John Ayres' "Italian" hand - "Italian" hand with flourishes, George Shelley - "Italian" hand of Decaroli - "Italian" hand as used by Servidori - German chancery script - Engraver's "Italian" hand - "Great Latin" or "English Roundhand," Johann Heinrigs.

Part 2: - Type used by Matthieu and Bonaventure Elzevir - The Jean Jannon type - The Fell roman and italic - Caslon "Old Face" - An italic and roman cut by Johann Fleischman - Baskerville's roman and italic - Bodoni capitals, lower-case, and "French Cursive" - Roman and italic used by Joaquin Ibarra - Didot roman and italic - A roman in the English "modern" style - A "modern" italic type - Eighteenth century decorative types - Open face titling.

IX. The Effects of the Industrial Revolution 149

Part 1: Typical nineteenth-century roundhand - Flourishing exercises and diagram showing position of pen and hand - Two peculiar roundhand techniques - The "Italian" letter - Engrossers' round script.

Part 2: Robert Thorne's fat-face roman - Thorne's Egyptian types - William Caslon IV's "Egyptian" - The Beaudoire capitals - The "Revived Old Style," Miller & Richard - William Morris's "Golden" type - The "Troy" type - "Specimens of Printing Types in Hildreth & Fales' Job Printing Establishment" - Basic English ornamented type styles of the nineteenth century.

X. The Twentieth Century 171

Part 1: Capitals, lower-case, italics and numbers based upon letters by A. Eric Gill - Typical broad-pen letters - Typical Von Larisch exercises - Scripts used during the 1930's - Use of script and sans serif in late 1930's - Sans serif letters based on "gothic" type - Freely-written headlines, showing present-day usage - Portion of a letter written by Maxfield Parrish - A current writing hand - An experiment in adapting personal writing tendencies.

Part 2: - Forum type, Frederic W. Goudy - Weiss initials - Cloister roman and italic - A Garamond produced by the Stempel type foundry - Bembo, Monotype Corporation of London - Paul Renner's Futura - Memphis - Ultra Bodoni - Alternate "Gothic" - Rudolf Koch's Neuland - Lydian - Nicolas-Cochin - Koch Antiqua - Bernhard Cursive - Trafton Script - Narcissus - Greco Adornado.

Section Two—A Practical Course in Lettering

XI. Lettering as Design 213

XII. Lettering with the Broad Pen 218

The pens - Position of the hand - Position of the pen in relation to the angle of the drawing board - Six simple strokes - Broad-pen capitals - Exercise in minuscules - Exercise in cursive letters - Numerals - How to draw parallels - Pen must be manipulated for certain strokes - "Spacing" capitals - "Spacing" lower-case - Nomenclature - Optical line-up - Name-card - How to scale a drawing - Layout, text, and dimensions for colophon exercise - Layout and diagram for placard - Example of manuscript book page - Diagram of facing pages, showing proportion of the margins - Title-page diagram - Diagram of page one - How to fill and use a ruling pen.

XIII. Built-Up Letters 237

Method of drawing and rendering built-up letters - Placard in built-up capitals - Placard in lower-case letters, tempera - How to use the brush - Placard in italics - Manner in which initials may be designed as decoration - Diagram of a poster using capitals, lower-case, and italics - Suggestions for borders made of letters - Diagram of a placard, using built-up Gothic letters - How Gothic letters are "spaced" - How to design a business card or letterhead - Exercises in the use of two or three initials for a cipher or monogram.

XIV. Exercises in Script 250

Exercises with the broad pen - Exercises with the pointed, flexible pen - The use of bowl- or ball-pointed pens - Diagram of an exercise in freely-written scripts - Stages of working out a headline in a built-up roundhand - How to use the ruler and pen for straight lines - Diagram of finished headline - Exercises with the brush - Simple capitals and minuscules for the brush.

XV. Problems of Integration 257

Diagrams of a layout exercise - The practical use of the layout exercise - Use of initials to suggest period, mood, etc. - Exercise in making a layout and working drawing - How to make a dummy booklet - How to use a razor blade or knife for cutting paper - Steps in laying out the pages of a comprehensive booklet - Comparison of dummy pages with finished pages, from a book designed by the author.

XVI. Poster Design 268

Analysis and History of the Poster: Egyptian grave stela, XXVI dynasty, 663-525 B.C. - Modern Japanese title-page - Earliest dated European poster, 1625 - Lautrec poster, 1899 - Poster by the "Beggarstaff Brothers," 1895 - Cover of Edward Penfield's "Stenciled Calendar," 1904 - Lettered poster by F. G. Cooper, about 1917 - Lucian Bernhard's poster for matches, 1911 - Poster by Helmut Beyer, late 1930's, showing use of humor - Poster for athletic games by Erich Murcken, 1930, abstraction, asymmetry, symbolism - Poster by Fortunato Depero, futurist designer, late 1920's - Poster by George Nemes, late 1920's, the novel point-of-view - Leaflet cover in poster style - Letters as decoration, catalog cover by Hans Bohn, early 1920's - Type poster, constructivist influence - A lettered book jacket - Magazine cover - Theatrical Poster - Poster by A. M. Cassandre. Notes on Poster Design: Traffic signs - Heraldic charges - Early trade- and house-marks - Chinese symbol the Great Monad - Example of countercharging - Two exercise suggestions - Suggestions for poster lettering, three, type faces, Kabel Black, Futura Black, Beton Extra Bold.

Bibliography 288

Index 293