Contents

Foreword
Albert Borgmann ix

Acknowledgments xi

A Note about the Cover Image xiii

Introduction Defining Technological Literacy 1
John R. Dakers

Part I Considering Aspects of Knowledge and Experience for Developing Technological Literacy

1 What Is Philosophy of Technology? 11
Andrew Feenberg

2 Technological Knowledge and Artifacts: An Analytical View 23
Marc J. de Vries

3 How to Understand Mundane Technology: New Ways of Thinking about Human–Technology Relations 41
Mike Michael

4 Walking the Plank: Mediations on a Process of Skill 57
Tim Ingold

5 Ethical Technological Literacy as Democratic Curriculum Keystone 75
Steve Keirl

Part II Considering Aspects of Design in Developing Technological Literacy

6 Understanding Technological Design 101
Carl Mitcham and J. Britt Holbrook

7 The Designer Fallacy and Technological Imagination 119
Don Ihde

Part III Considering Aspects of Pedagogy for Developing Technological Literacy

8 Toward a Philosophy for (a New) Technology Education 133
John R. Dakers

9 Implicit Theories: Their Impact on Technology Education 149
Wendy Dow

Part IV Considering Globalization, Computers, the World Wide Web, and Their Impact in Developing Technological Literacy

10 Reconstructing Technoliteracy: A Multiple Literacies Approach 165
Richard Kahn and Douglas Kellner

11 From Knowledge to Information: Virtual Classrooms or Automated Diploma Mills? 193
Michael A. Peters

Notes on Contributors 211

Author Index 217

Subject Index 221