

Table of contents

1. To Ceylon, Via Suez 7
2. The First Chinese City: Singapore 17
3. Moving Southward 25
4. The Character of the Chinese Colonies 33
5. The Colonies and China 36
6. After the Junk has Crossed the Sky... 43
7. A Funeral in Hong Kong 50
8. Guangzhou 58
9. The Founder of Chinese Republic 65
10. Macao: A City of Gamblers 75
11. Coastal China 81
12. Beijing: A City of Ruins and Fairy-tales 91
13. The Zhang Family 106
14. The Glory and the Decline of the Manchus 114
15. My Chinese Teacher 136
16. Complexities of the Chinese Language 141
17. The General and Peasants 146
18. The Agrarian Problem 151
19. The Language, Old and New 157
20. Youth Movement after the World War 171
21. The Old Lady 176
22. Food and Culture 184
23. Two Parties 190
24. Beijing's Itinerant Actors 201
25. Two Modern Chinese Women 215
26. Chinese Educated Abroad 228
27. Students 245
28. The Koreans 257
29. Japanese Siege of Beijing 261
30. Refugees 266
31. Chinese Soldiers 269
32. The Old Lady's Farm 275
33. The Poet Xu Zhimo 280
34. Old and New Poetry 284
35. Bing Xin, Heart of Ice 290
36. Monasteries and Monks 303

37. The Chinese Novel 327
38. Book Hunting 340
39. Strolls around Beijing 344
40. The Blue Houses 351
41. A Visit to Qibaishi 361
42. Chinese Theatre and Its Actors 366
43. Jing Ling 388
44. Short-story Writer Lu Xun and Others 401
45. The Old Lady's Death 406
46. The Journey to the West 416
47. Xi'anfu, City of Faded Glory 421
48. Springtime in Luoyang 449
49. Exeunt All 455
Epilogue 461
Postscript to the Second Edition from 1947 466
Illustrations 468
Editor's Note 470
Index 472