

Contents

List of figures	vii
List of tables	viii
Notes on contributors	xi
Series editors' preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xiv
1 Parliamentary elite formation after Communism: an introduction	1
ELENA SEMENOVA, MICHAEL EDINGER, AND HEINRICH BEST
PART I
Central European parliaments	31
2 The Czech parliament on the road to professionalization and stabilization	33
ZDENKA MANSFELDOVÁ
3 Hungarian MPs in the context of political transformation (1990–2010)	54
GABRIELLA ILONSZKI AND ANDRÁS SCHWARCZ
4 The Polish Diet since 1989: from fragmentation to consolidation	74
JACEK WASILEWSKI AND WITOLD BETKIEWICZ

PART II
Baltic parliaments	97
5 Recruitment of parliamentary representatives in an ethno-liberal democracy: Estonia	99
MINDAUGAS KUKLYS
6 Legislative elites in multi-ethnic Latvia after 1990	122
MINDAUGAS KUKLYS
7 Lithuanian parliamentary elites after 1990: dilemmas of political representation and political professionalism	145
IRMINA MATONYTĖ AND GINTARAS ŠUMSKAS
PART III
Southeast European parliaments	169
8 Croatian parliamentary elites: toward professionalization and homogenization	171
VLASTA ILIŠIN AND GORAN ČULAR
9 The “waiting room”: Romanian parliament after 1989	194
LAURENȚIU ȘTEFAN AND RĂZVAN GRECU
PART IV
Post-Soviet parliaments	217
10 Legislative elite formation in Moldova: continuity and change	219
WILLIAM CROWTHER
11 Parliamentary representation and MPs in Russia: historical retrospective and comparative perspective	241
OXANA GAMAN-GOLUTVINA
12 Parliamentary representation in post-communist Ukraine: change and stability	261
ELENA SEMENOVA
13 Patterns of parliamentary elite recruitment in Central and Eastern Europe: a comparative analysis	284
ELENA SEMENOVA, MICHAEL EDINGER, AND HEINRICH BEST
Index	308