

Table of Contents

Table of Cases	xxvi
Table of Legislation	xxviii
Abbreviations	xliv

PART 1 THE LAW OF TARGETING IN CONTEXT

1 Introduction	3
1.1 Introduction	3
1.2 What is targeting?	4
1.3 Why is targeting important?	4
1.4 Putting the law of targeting into context	5
1.5 Outline of the text	5
1.6 The background to the book	8
1.7 The purpose of the book	11
2 Historical Evolution of the Law	13
2.1 Lieber Code	13
2.2 St Petersburg Declaration 1868	15
2.3 Brussels Declaration 1874	15
2.4 Oxford Manual 1880	17
2.5 Hague Convention II, 1899	18
2.6 Hague Peace Conference 1907	19
2.7 Hague Convention IX, 1907	21
2.8 Air warfare	22
2.9 Geneva Conventions 1949	25
2.10 Hague Cultural Property Convention 1954	26
2.11 Environmental Modification Convention 1976 (ENMOD)	26
2.12 Additional Protocols I and II 1977	27
2.13 San Remo and Air and Missile Warfare Manuals	28
2.14 International criminal jurisdiction over war crimes	28
2.15 ICRC Customary Law Study	29
2.16 Conclusion	29
3 Sources of the Law	30
3.1 Introduction	30
3.2 The sources of targeting law	31
3.3 Customary law	31
3.4 Treaties	35
3.5 Treaty formalities	36

3.6	Statements of interpretation and reservations	37
3.7	Interpretation of treaties	38
3.8	Treaty rules and custom	39
3.9	ICRC Customary Law Study	40
3.10	Commentaries on the Additional Protocols	41
3.11	UN Secretary General's Bulletin	41
3.12	Conclusion	42
4	Spectrum of Conflict	43
4.1	Introduction	43
4.2	International armed conflict	43
4.3	Meaning of armed conflict	45
4.4	Conflicts under article 1(4) of API	46
4.5	Non-international armed conflicts to which Additional Protocol II (APII) applies	47
4.6	Non-international armed conflicts under Common Article 3	49
4.7	Occupation	50
4.8	Conflicts other than armed conflicts	50
4.9	Human rights law and domestic law	51
4.10	Peacekeeping, peace enforcement, and the spectrum of conflict	53
4.11	Conclusion	53
PART II GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF THE LAW OF TARGETING
5	Customary Rules of Targeting	57
5.1	Introduction	57
5.2	Fundamental customary principles of targeting law	58
5.2.1	Methods and means of warfare not unlimited	58
5.2.2	Military necessity	59
5.2.3	Humanity	59
5.2.4	Chivalry	60
5.2.5	Distinction	60
5.2.6	Threats of violence	62
5.3	The rule of discrimination at customary law	64
5.4	Combatants	65
5.5	The meaning of 'the armed forces'	67
5.6	The meaning of 'civilians'	69
5.7	The protection of civilians	70
5.8	Civilian objects	70
5.9	Doubt as to character of an object	71
5.10	Customary rule of proportionality	71
5.11	Precautions in attack	72
5.12	Precautions against the effects of attacks	74
5.13	Conclusion	76

6 The API Rule of Distinction	77
6.1 Introduction	77
6.2 Nuclear weapons	78
6.3 Basic rule	79
6.4 The meaning of attacks and scope of application	81
6.5 The meaning of civilians, armed forces, and combatants	82
6.6 Interaction between articles 51, 43, and 44	88
6.7 Prohibiting attacks on civilians	89
6.8 Determining civilian status	91
6.9 Indiscriminate attacks	91
6.10 Article 51(5)(a)	93
6.11 Article 51(5)(b)—the rule of proportionality	94
6.12 Other aspects of article 51	97
6.12.1 Article 51(6)	97
6.12.2 Article 51(7)	98
6.12.3 Article 51(8)	98
6.13 Military objectives and the protection of civilian objects	98
6.14 In case of doubt	107
6.15 Particular rules of protection	108
6.15.1 Cultural objects and the natural environment	109
6.15.2 Objects indispensable to the survival of the civilian population	109
6.16 Articles 57 and 58—precautions	111
6.17 Article 59—non-defended localities	111
6.18 Article 60—demilitarized zones	114
6.19 Protective zones at customary law	116
7 Precautions	118
7.1 Introduction	118
7.2 The general rule	119
7.3 The listed precautions in article 57(2)	119
7.4 Precautions against the effects of attacks—the obligations of defenders	130
7.4.1 Precaution (a)	131
7.4.2 Precaution (b)	133
7.4.3 Precaution (c)	134
7.5 The reciprocal nature of precautions obligations	135
7.6 Involuntary human shields	136
7.7 Voluntary human shields	137
7.8 Conclusion	140
8 Targeting Persons and the Controversy as to Direct Participation in Hostilities	141
8.1 Introduction	141
8.2 Members of the armed forces as combatants	142
8.3 Distinguishing persons entitled to be respected from 'combatants'	143

8.4	'Active' and 'direct' participation in hostilities	144
8.5	Background of the 'direct participation' controversy	145
8.6	The Interpretive Guidance—an introduction	146
8.7	The Interpretive Guidance—general comments	148
8.8	Presumption against direct participation	149
8.9	ICRC Guidance—the notions of armed forces and organized armed groups	150
8.10	The specific act approach	152
8.11	Threshold of harm	153
8.12	The requirement for direct causation	154
8.13	Belligerent nexus	155
8.14	More general observations	156
8.15	Beginning and end of DPH	158
8.16	Temporal scope of the loss of protection	160
8.17	Disengagement from DPH and the consequences	161
8.18	A proposed view of DPH	162
8.19	Conclusion	164
9	The Controversy over Bombardment—What is the Required Degree of Care?	165
9.1	Introduction	165
9.2	Hague Regulations 1907	168
9.3	Draft Hague Air Rules	170
9.4	Protocols Additional to the Geneva Conventions	170
9.5	The realities of military operations	171
9.6	The required degree of care	172
9.7	Cancelling or suspending attacks	175
9.8	Negligence, due care, and errors of judgement	176
9.9	The operational context in which care is taken	177
9.10	Obligations of the defender	182
9.11	International criminal law	183
	9.11.1 International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia	184
	9.11.2 Application of the targeting rules in Kosovo	185
9.12	Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court	187
9.13	An evaluation of these war crimes	190
9.14	Conclusions	190

PART III PARTICULAR PROTECTIONS

10	The Protection of the Environment	195
10.1	Introduction	195
10.2	Early texts	195
10.3	Hague Peace Conferences 1899 and 1907	196
10.4	Geneva Gas Protocol 1925	198

10.5	ENMOD	199
10.6	Articles 35 and 55 of API	201
10.6.1	Convention on Certain Conventional Weapons (CCW) and the environment	204
10.7	The environment, targeting, and the Gulf War 1990 to 1991	204
10.8	Nuclear weapons	205
10.9	Reprisals against the environment	206
10.10	ICRC Guidelines for military manuals	207
10.11	ICRC Customary Law Study	207
10.12	Application of peacetime environmental law in armed conflict	211
11	Cultural Property	213
11.1	Introduction	213
11.2	Writings of nineteenth-century jurists	214
11.2.1	Lieber Code	214
11.2.2	Brussels Declaration 1874 and Oxford Manual 1880	214
11.3	Hague Peace Conferences 1899 and 1907	215
11.4	Hague Draft Rules 1923	217
11.5	Hague Convention 1954	217
11.5.1	Introduction	217
11.5.2	General protection of cultural property under the 1954 Convention	218
11.5.3	Special protection under the 1954 Convention	221
11.5.4	1999 Protocol to the 1954 Convention—general protection	222
11.5.5	Enhanced protection under the 1999 Protocol	224
11.5.6	The significance of enhanced protection	225
11.5.7	Loss of enhanced protection	226
11.6	Additional Protocol 1 and cultural property	226
11.7	War crimes in relation to cultural property	228
11.8	Military Manuals and cultural property	228
11.9	Participation in the treaties	229
11.10	Customary law protection of cultural property	229
11.11	Implications for the targeteer	230
12	Objects Entitled to Special Protection	232
12.1	Introduction	232
12.2	Civilian medical units	233
12.3	Hospital ships, sick-bays, other medical ships and craft	234
12.4	Medical units and establishments	235
12.5	Medical transports	236
12.5.1	Medical aircraft	236
12.6	Civil airliners—the AMW provisions	240
12.6.1	Civilian airliners—the San Remo Manual provisions	242
12.7	Cultural objects	243
12.8	Aircraft granted safe conduct	244
12.9	Works and installations containing dangerous forces	245

12.10	The natural environment	250
12.11	Civil defence	250
12.12	Other persons or items for which special protection appears to be claimed	252
12.13	Conclusion	252

PART IV WEAPONS AND TECHNOLOGIES

13	Weapons	255
13.1	Introduction	255
13.2	Historical evolution of the law of weaponry	256
13.3	Superfluous injury and unnecessary suffering	258
13.4	Indiscriminate weapons	260
13.5	Geneva Gas Protocol 1925	260
13.6	Weapons and the environment	261
13.7	Conventional Weapons Convention 1980	261
	13.7.1 Weapons prohibited under CCW	262
13.8	Customary status of CCW Protocol rules	264
13.9	Ottawa Convention 1997	264
13.10	Chemical weapons	265
13.11	Bacteriological or biological weapons	267
13.12	Cluster munitions	268
13.13	Application of weapons law in non-international armed conflict	270
13.14	Treaty law restrictions on the use of certain weapons	270
13.15	Non-lethal weapons	273
13.16	Conclusion	274
14	Intelligence Gathering and Targeting Using Particular Technologies	275
14.1	Introduction	275
14.2	Intelligence gathering	275
14.3	Intelligence gathering, reconnaissance, and communications using UAVs	280
14.4	The marking of UAVs	280
14.5	Firing weapons from UAVs	281
14.6	UAVs firing weapons autonomously	282
14.7	Civilian involvement in UAV operations	287
14.8	Directed energy attacks	288
14.9	Nuclear attack	290
	14.9.1 The International Court of Justice Advisory Opinion	293
	14.9.2 The UK position	295
	14.9.3 Nuclear disarmament	296
14.10	Nanotechnology and the challenges posed by advances in technology	296

PART V SPECIFIC DOMAINS

15 Maritime Targeting	301
15.1 Introduction	301
15.2 Early treaty law regulating maritime targeting	301
15.3 The obligations of neutral powers in naval warfare	306
15.4 Submarine warfare—the early law	307
15.5 Littoral targeting and API	309
15.6 Submarine warfare, the modern law	310
15.7 Other conventional law applying to naval warfare	311
15.8 The right to participate in hostilities at sea	312
15.9 San Remo Manual 1994—the basic rules	312
15.10 San Remo Manual—exemption from attack	315
15.11 Vessels exempt from attack	315
15.12 Aircraft exempt from attack	317
15.13 Other enemy vessels and aircraft	317
15.14 San Remo Manual—attacking neutral vessels and aircraft	318
15.15 San Remo Manual—precautions in attack	319
15.16 Weapons in naval warfare	320
15.16.1 Missiles and other projectiles	320
15.16.2 Torpedoes	320
15.16.3 Mines	321
15.17 Ruses and perfidy in naval warfare	322
16 Air and Missile Targeting	324
16.1 A brief historical background	324
16.1.1 Application of API to the air domain	326
16.2 Some introductory remarks	328
16.3 What is airspace and how does sovereignty apply within it?	328
16.3.1 Divisions of airspace and freedom of navigation	329
16.3.2 Zones of airspace and their significance	330
16.3.3 Exclusion zones, war zones, and no-fly zones	331
16.4 Aircraft, UAVs, missiles, and military aircraft	333
16.5 Civil and State aircraft under the Chicago Convention	335
16.6 Movement of military aircraft through airspace	336
16.7 Status of crews of military aircraft	336
16.8 Persons parachuting from aircraft in distress	337
16.9 Weapons, methods, and means of aerial warfare	338
16.9.1 Air-to-surface weapons	339
16.9.2 Air-to-air and ground-to-air weapons	339
16.10 Ground attack	340
16.11 Surrender of, and to, aircraft	342
16.12 Interception, inspection, and diversion of neutral civil aircraft	344
16.13 Capture of neutral civil aircraft and goods	345
16.14 Capture of enemy civil aircraft and goods	347
16.15 Protected, and specially protected, aircraft	348

16.16	Application of the fundamental targeting principles to duties of those on the ground	349
16.17	What is direct participation in air hostilities?	351
16.18	The legal use of less sophisticated technologies	357
16.19	Conclusion	358
17	Targeting and Outer Space	359
17.1	Introduction	359
17.2	Application of targeting law to outer space	360
17.3	Meaning of outer space	362
17.4	The treaty regime in outer space	363
17.5	Application of law of armed conflict rules to space	369
17.6	Anti-satellite attack methods	371
17.7	The space debris problem	372
17.8	Weapons law in space	374
17.9	Summary	376
17.10	Civilian involvement in space operations	377
17.11	Conclusion	377
18	Cyber Targeting	378
18.1	Some preliminary definitions	378
18.2	Applicability of the law of armed conflict to cyber hostilities	381
18.3	Cyber attacks	383
18.4	Application of API to cyber attacks	387
18.5	Applying the rules to cyber operations	388
18.5.1	Is the proposed target system a military objective?	390
18.5.2	Discrimination, proportionality, and target selection	390
18.5.3	DDOS attack using botnet	391
18.5.4	Intelligence gathering via a targeted Trojan—planting a kill-switch in the process	393
18.5.5	'Man-in-the-middle' attack	394
18.5.6	Denial of service attack via system logic	395
18.5.7	Compromised supply chain	396
18.5.8	Masquerade	396
18.5.9	Cyber attacks on objects entitled to special protection	397
18.5.10	Perfidy and espionage	399
18.6	Who has the right to participate in cyber hostilities?	400

PART VI PRACTICAL ASPECTS OF CONTEMPORARY TARGETING

19	The Prosecution of Difficult Targets	405
19.1	Introduction	405
19.2	Fighting in built-up areas (FIBUA)	406
19.3	Objectives containing dangerous substances	414
19.4	Shielding of military objectives	419

19.5	Airliners in flight	422
19.6	Civilians taking a direct part in hostilities	426
19.7	Conclusion	427
20	Non-International Armed Conflict	429
20.1	Introduction	429
20.2	Common Article 3	432
20.3	Combatant status and the notion of fighters	433
20.4	APII protection of wounded, sick, and shipwrecked	434
20.5	APII protection of the civilian population	436
20.6	APII protection of objects indispensable to the survival of the civilian population	437
20.7	APII protection of works and installations containing dangerous forces	438
20.8	APII protection of cultural objects and of places of worship	439
20.9	Prohibition of forced movement of civilians	440
20.10	Customary rules of targeting in NIAC	440
	20.10.1 The principle of distinction in NIAC	441
	20.10.2 Indiscriminate attacks	442
	20.10.3 Proportionality	443
	20.10.4 Precautions in attack	443
	20.10.5 Means of combat	445
20.11	General NIAC targeting rules	447
20.12	War crimes in NIAC	450
20.13	Conclusion	453
21	Internal Security, Insurgency, and Operations Short of War	455
21.1	Introduction	455
21.2	Domestic law on the use of force	457
	21.2.1 UK domestic law on the use of force	458
	21.2.2 US domestic law on the use of force	459
21.3	Human rights law and security situations	461
21.4	International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights	466
21.5	United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights	468
21.6	Lawfulness of weapons in internal security operations	468
21.7	Insurgency	469
21.8	Military aid to the civil power	470
21.9	Conclusions	470
PART VII TARGETING LAW CHALLENGES AND COMPLIANCE
22	How States Implement the Distinction Principle	475
22.1	Introduction	475
22.2	Targeting procedures	475

22.3	Rules of engagement	480
22.4	Disciplined forces	481
22.5	Military manuals	483
22.6	Military training	483
22.7	Legal advice	484
22.8	International jurisdiction	485
22.9	Other measures	486
22.10	Conclusion	488
23	A Challenge to the Distinction Principle—Effects Based Warfare	489
23.1	Introduction	489
23.2	Challenges to the contemporary law of targeting	491
23.3	Revalidating the contemporary law	494
23.4	Is the 'effects based' approach new and does it justify new rules?	496
23.5	Stretching the definition of 'military objective' to accommodate 'effects based' targeting	501
23.6	The purpose of the attack	503
23.7	The meaning of 'military advantage'	506
23.8	Can 'effects based' accommodate to the existing law?	506
23.9	Applying the emerging principle	509
23.10	Conclusion	511
24	Reprisals, Neutrality, and Other Important Issues	512
24.1	Reprisals defined	512
24.2	The purpose of reprisals	513
24.3	UK's declared position on reprisals	514
24.4	Unlawful reprisals	515
24.5	Reprisal use of unlawful weapons	516
24.6	Reprisals under the law of war crimes	518
24.7	Neutrality and targeting	519
24.8	UN Charter and neutrality	521
24.9	Application of human rights law in armed conflict	521
24.10	The degree of force that may be used in armed conflict	525
24.11	Assassination operations in furtherance of armed conflict	527
24.12	Targeted killing	530
24.13	Perfidy, emblems, and ruses	532
24.14	Espionage	534
24.15	Mercenaries	535
24.16	Denial of quarter	536
24.17	Safeguarding of an enemy hors de combat	536
24.18	Journalists	537
24.19	UN personnel and diplomatic staffs	538
24.20	Humanitarian relief	539

25 When Things Go Wrong	540
25.1 Introduction	540
25.2 Compensation under LOAC when things go wrong	542
25.3 Criminal liability when things go wrong	544
25.4 Is technical inferiority a defence under the law of armed conflict?	547
25.5 Is there a duty to investigate under the law of armed conflict?	548
25.6 Human rights law and investigations of deaths	548
25.7 Investigations by NGOs	549

PART VIII CONCLUSION

26 Is the Law of Targeting Adequate and Does it Have a Future?	553
26.1 Introduction	553
26.2 Does the spectrum of conflict make sense?	553
26.3 Is the law fit for purpose—effects based warfare?	555
26.4 Is the law fit for purpose—asymmetric warfare and suicide bombing?	556
26.5 Is the law fit for purpose—wider role of civilians in armed conflict?	560
26.6 Is the law fit for purpose—technological advances in warfare?	561
26.7 Law and the future nature of warfare	563
26.8 A future without war	564
26.9 Concluding remarks	565
Bibliography	567
Index	583