

Contents

|   |      |
|---|------|
| List of Illustrations  | xiii |
| Introduction: Last Words and First Words: On Creeds, Christ, and the Human Condition  | 1    |
| 1 Moral Theology, Moral Philosophy, Social Anthropology, and the State We Are In: On (the Lack of) Everyday Ethics                                    | 6    |
| I Introduction: The State We Are In   | 6    |
| II The Oddity of Moral Theology   | 8    |
| III The Even Greater Oddity of Moral Philosophy: The Philosophy of What?  | 18   |
| IV The Promise of Social Anthropology   | 23   |
| V Seeing the World in Christ: The Mérode Altarpiece  | 29   |
| 2 Conceiving Conception: On IVF, Virgin Births, and the Troubling of Kinship  | 35   |
| I Introduction: On Conceiving Christ (Normatively Speaking)   | 35   |
| II Augustine and Fathers Who Count  | 38   |
| III Troubling Kinship Before and After Augustine  | 41   |
| IV 'Conception Amongst the Anthropologists'   | 47   |
| V Conceiving Conception Christianly   | 54   |
| 3 Being Born and Being Born Again: On Having or Not Having a Child of One's Own   | 60   |
| I Introduction: On Various Pronatalisms   | 60   |
| II Birthing the Once-Born Child   | 63   |
| III Birthing the Twice-Born Child   | 71   |
| IV 'Serious and Sad in their Pleasures'   | 79   |
| 4 Regarding Suffering: On the Discovery of the Pain of Christ, the Politics of Compassion, and the Contemporary Mediation of the Woes of the World    | 82   |
| I Introduction: On Noticing the Cross   | 82   |
| II Discovering the Suffering of Christ  | 84   |
| III Making Suffering Count: Anxieties about the Politics of Compassion, Anthropology's Discovery of Suffering, and the Triumph of Humanitarian Reason | 90   |
| IV Attending to Suffering, Technologies of the Self, and the Christian Life   | 97   |
| V Conclusion: The Future History of Suffering   | 104  |

|   |   |     |
|---|---|-----|
| 5 | Dying and 'Death before Death': On Hospices, Euthanasia, Alzheimer's, and on (Not) Knowing How to Dwindle                             | 107 |
|   | I Introduction: On Imagining Death  | 107 |
|   | II Getting Dead Christianly   | 108 |
|   | III Two Scripts—But for Only One Sort of (Old-Fashioned) Dying  | 114 |
|   | IV Dying Without a Script   | 120 |
|   | V The Irrelevance of Bioethics—and the Need for Fieldwork in Alzheimer's  | 123 |
|   | VI Against 'Death before Death'; or New (Social) Scripts for Dwindling to Death   | 133 |
| 6 | Contesting Burial and Mourning: On Relics, Alder Hey, and Keeping the Dead Close  | 135 |
|   | I Introduction: On Burying Christ (Properly)  | 135 |
|   | II Augustine on Burial, Mourning, and Relics (in Which Augustine Learns to Weep)  | 139 |
|   | III Alder Hey and the Modern Opacity of Care for the Dead   | 155 |
|   | IV Anthropology and Mourning (in Which Superstitions Abound)  | 162 |
|   | V Mourning Without Superstition   | 172 |
| 7 | Remembering Christ and Making Time Count: On the Practice and Politics of Memory  | 174 |
|   | I Introduction: On Not Forgetting to Remember   | 174 |
|   | II On Remembering Thoroughly  | 176 |
|   | III On Remembering Well   | 181 |
|   | IV On Remembering Sin—Forgivingly   | 183 |
|   | V On Remembering Then and Now   | 188 |
|   | IV Conclusion: Right Rites for Remembering Rightly  | 195 |
| 8 | In Conclusion: Some Final (but Not Last) Words  | 198 |
|   | I From Alder Hey to Moral Theology (via Social Anthropology)  | 198 |
|   | II Seeing Christ in the World: Spencer's Travoy's Arriving with Wounded at a Dressing-Station, Smol, Macedonia, September 1916 | 205 |
|   | Bibliography   | 211 |
|   | Index  | 221 |