
Contents

Foreword by Richard Macksey	page xi
List of books by Gérard Genette	xxiii
Translator's note	xxv

1 Introduction	1
2 The publisher's peritext	16
Formats	17
Series	22
The cover and its appendages	23
The title page and its appendages	32
Typesetting, printings	33
3 The name of the author	37
Place	37
Onymity	39
Anonymity	42
Pseudonymity	46
4 Titles	55
Definitions	55
Place	64
Time	66
Senders	73
Addressees	74
Functions	76
Designation	79
Connotations	89
Temptation?	91
Genre indications	94

5 The please-insert	104
The four stages	104
Tangents and appendages	114
6 Dedications and inscriptions	117
The dedication of the work	117
Place	126
Time	127
Dedicators	129
Dedicatees	131
Functions	135
The inscription of the copy	136
Place, time	138
Inscriber, inscribee	139
Functions	140
7 Epigraphs	144
Historical survey	144
Place, time	149
The "epigraphed"	150
Epigraphers	153
Epigraphees	155
Functions	156
8 The prefatorial situation of communication	161
Definition	161
Prehistory	163
Form	170
Place	172
Time	174
Senders	178
Addressees	194
9 The functions of the original preface	196
The themes of the why	198
Importance	199
Novelty, tradition	200
Unity	201
Truthfulness	206
Lightning rods	207

The themes of the how	209
Genesis	210
Choice of a public	212
Commentary on the title	213
Contracts of fiction	215
The order in which to read	218
Contextual information	218
Statements of intent	221
Genre definitions	224
Dodges	229
10 Other prefaces, other functions	237
Postfaces	237
Later prefaces	239
Delayed prefaces	247
Allographic prefaces	263
Actorial prefaces	276
Fictional prefaces	277
Disavowing authorial prefaces	280
Fictive authorial prefaces	284
Fictive allographic prefaces	288
Fictive actorial prefaces	291
Mirrors	292
11 Intertitles	294
Cases of absence	295
Degrees of presence	297
Narrative fiction	298
History	309
Didactic texts	311
Collections	312
Tables of contents, running heads	316
12 Notes	319
Definition, place, time	319
Senders, addressees	322
Functions	324
Discursive texts: original notes	325
Discursive texts: later notes	328
Discursive texts: delayed notes	330

Texts of fiction	332
Allographic notes	337
Actorial notes	339
Fictional notes	340
13 The public epitext	344
Definitions	344
The publisher's epitext	347
The semiofficial allographic epitext	348
The public authorial epitext	351
Auto-reviews	352
Public responses	354
Mediations	356
Delayed autocommentaries	367
14 The private epitext	371
Correspondence	372
Oral confidences	384
Diaries	387
Pre-texts	395
15 Conclusion	404
 Additional references	 411
Index	419