

CONTENTS

Figures	ix
Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
I. Writing in Communicative Context	1
1. Kinds of Communication	3
Definitions and Dichotomies	3
Spoken Language	7
Touch Language	11
Sign Language	13
2. What Is Writing?	20
Limited Symbols for Limited Use	20
A Yukaghir Love Letter	24
Amerindian Pictographs	35
Partial/Limited/Pseudo/Non- Writing	42
Full/Unlimited/Real Writing	47
The Forest of Family Trees	56
II. Full Writing Systems	65
3. Syllabic Systems	67
“Meaning-plus-Sound” Syllabic Systems	68
Sumerian	69
Chinese	89
Mayan	121
“Pure” Syllabic Systems	128
Japanese	131
Yi	144

4. Consonantal Systems	150
"Meaning-plus-Sound" Consonantal System	151
Egyptian	151
"Pure" Consonantal Systems	164
Phoenician	166
Hebrew	169
Arabic	172
5. Alphabetic Systems	174
"Pure" Alphabetic Systems	174
Greek	174
Latin	181
"Meaning-plus-Sound" Alphabetic Systems	184
Korean	186
English	200
III. Writing in Comparative Perspective	209
6. A Critique of Writing about Writing	211
Graphic Principle	212
Representational Level	218
Graphic Symbols	230
Writing, Reading, and Thinking	238
7. The Essential Oneness of Full Writing	248
Writing as Visible Speech	248
The Duality Principle	253
The Dead Hand of the Past	262
Notes	271
Glossary	277
References	283
Index	299