PHILOSOPHY

Overview. Charles E. Caton	3
-----------------------------------	---

1 MEANING

On sentence-sense, word-sense and difference of word-sense. Towards a philosophical theory of dictionaries. David Wiggins	14
--	----

How does one tell whether a word has one, several or many senses? William P. Alston	35
---	----

A reply to Mr Alston. David Wiggins	48
--	----

Meaning. H. P. Grice	53
-----------------------------	----

On H. P. Grice's account of meaning. Paul Ziff	60
---	----

Three levels of meaning. Gilbert H. Harman	66
---	----

2 REFERENCE

Reference and referents. Leonard Linsky	76
--	----

Identifying reference and truth-values. P. F. Strawson	86
---	----

Reference and definite descriptions. Keith Donnellan	100
---	-----

Singular terms. Zeno Vendler	115
-------------------------------------	-----

The problem of proper names. John R. Searle	134
--	-----

The inscrutability of reference. W. V. Quine	142
---	-----

LINGUISTICS

Overview. Howard Maclay	157
--------------------------------	-----

1 THE ROLE OF SEMANTICS IN A GRAMMAR

Deep structure, surface structure, and semantic interpretation. Noam Chomsky	183
---	-----

Where do noun phrases come from? James D. McCawley	217
---	-----

On generative semantics. George Lakoff	232
---	-----

2	MEANING, PRESUPPOSITION AND REFERENCE	page
	Semantic theory. Jerrold J. Katz	297
	Explorations in semantic theory. Uriel Weinreich	308
	Presupposition and relative well-formedness. George Lakoff	329
	Presupposition and assertion in the semantic analysis of nouns and verbs in English. D. Terence Langendoen	341
	Fact. Paul Kiparsky and Carol Kiparsky	345
3	THE LEXICON
	Types of lexical information. Charles J. Fillmore	370
	The data of semantic description. Edward H. Bendix	393
	On classifying semantic features. Manfred Bierwisch	410
	A method of semantic description. R. M. W. Dixon	436
	A note on a Walbiri tradition of antonymy. Kenneth Hale	472
	PSYCHOLOGY
	Overview. Danny Steinberg	485
1	THEORETICAL ISSUES
	Where do sentences come from? Charles E. Osgood	497
	Are there specifically linguistic universals? David McNeill	530
	Language and cognition. Eric H. Lenneberg	536
	Could meaning be an $r_m$ ? Jerry A. Fodor	558
2	EMPIRICAL STUDIES
	Empirical methods in the study of semantics. George A. Miller	569
	Some lexical structures and their empirical validity. Thomas G. Bever and Peter S. Rosenbaum	586
	Index	601
