

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	page ix
Opening: Networking Minds, Creating Meaning, Contesting Power	1
Prelude to Revolution: Where It All Started	20
Tunisia: “The Revolution of Liberty and Dignity”	22
Iceland’s Kitchenware Revolution: from financial collapse to crowdsourcing a new constitution	31
Southern wind, northern wind: cross-cultural levers of social change	44
The Egyptian Revolution	53
Space of flows and space of places in the Egyptian revolution	56

State's response to an Internet-facilitated revolution: the great disconnection	61
Who were the protesters, and what was the protest?	66
Women in revolution	69
The Islamic question	73
"The revolution will continue"	76
Understanding the Egyptian revolution	78
Dignity, Violence, Geopolitics: The Arab Uprisings	93
Violence and the state	97
A digital revolution?	103
A Rhizomatic Revolution: Indignadas in Spain	110
A self-mediated movement	116
What did/do the indignadas want?	122
The discourse of the movement	125
Reinventing democracy in practice: an assembly- led, leaderless movement	128
From deliberation to action: the question of violence	133
A political movement against the political system	136
A rhizomatic revolution	140
Occupy Wall Street: Harvesting the Salt of the Earth	156
The outrage, the thunder, the spark	156
The prairie on fire	162
A networked movement	171
Direct democracy in practice	178
A non-demand movement: "The process is the message"	185
Violence against a non-violent movement	188

What did the movement achieve?	191
The salt of the Earth	197
Changing the World in the Network Society	218
Networked social movements: an emerging pattern?	221
Internet and the culture of autonomy	228
Networked social movements and reform politics: an impossible love?	234
Beyond Outrage, Hope: The Life and Death of   Networked Social Movements	244
Appendices	247