

Contents

---

List of figures and tables	page ix
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction	1
1 The crisis in human services and the need for community	8
The crisis in the welfare state and the emergence of neo-liberalism	9
A way forward	14
Community-based services as an alternative	16
The missing ingredient: community development	20
The next steps	30
2 Foundations of community development: An ecological perspective	31
Crisis	31
Environmental responses and Green responses	33
Themes within Green analysis	35
An ecological perspective	48
An ecological perspective: is it enough?	56
3 Foundations of community development: A social justice perspective	58
Approaches to disadvantage: the limitations of social policy	58
Empowerment	63
Need	72
Rights	78
4 Foundations of community development: Beyond Enlightenment modernity	82
The Enlightenment	82
Beyond the Enlightenment	90
Indigenous understandings	95
Conclusion	103

5 A vision for community development	104
Why each perspective is insufficient unless informed by the others	104
The promise of integration	110
Community	111
Development	120
Community-based human services	124
An alternative vision: grounds for hope	135
6 Change from below	138
Valuing local knowledge	139
Valuing local culture	142
Valuing local resources	144
Valuing local skills	146
Valuing local processes	147
Working in solidarity	147
Ideological and theoretical foundations for change from below	148
Conclusion	156
7 The process of community development	158
Process and outcome	158
The integrity of process	161
Consciousness-raising	163
Participatory democracy	167
Cooperation	175
The pace of development	177
Peace and non-violence	178
Consensus	180
Community-building	181
Conclusion	182
8 The global and the local	183
Globalisation	183
Localisation	189
Protest	191
Global and local practice	192
Universal and contextual issues	195
9 Colonialism, colonialist practice and working internationally	198
Guarding against colonialist practice	204
Working internationally	208

10 Community development: Social, economic and political	212
Social development	213
Economic development	221
Political development	231
11 Community development: Cultural, environmental, spiritual, personal and survival	237
Cultural development	237
Environmental development	251
Spiritual development	254
Personal development	256
Survival development	259
Balanced development	264
12 Principles of community development and their application to practice	267
Foundational principles	268
Principles of valuing the local	280
Process principles	287
Global and local principles	297
Conclusion	299
13 Roles and skills 1: Facilitative and educational	300
With head, heart, hand and feet	300
The problem with 'cookbooks'	301
Competencies	303
Practice, theory, reflection and praxis	304
The language of roles	305
Facilitative roles and skills	307
Educational roles and skills	319
14 Roles and skills 2: Representational and technical	326
Representational roles and skills	326
Technical roles and skills	332
Two special cases: needs assessment and evaluation	339
Demystifying skills	344
15 The organisational context	348
Managerialism	348
Responding to managerialism: community development as subversive	354
Introducing community development processes: the power of the collective	357
Conclusion	363

16 Practice issues	365
Practice frameworks	365
Categories of community worker	366
Values and ethics	370
Professionalism	378
Education and training	380
The use and abuse of power	381
Internal and external community work	383
Long-term commitment	385
Support	387
Passion, vision and hope	392
References	395
Index	412