

CONTENTS

M. Lodenius: Accumulation and fluxes of mercury in terrestrial and aquatic food chains with special reference to Finland	77
A. F. G. Dixon, P. Kindlmann: Cannibalism, optimal egg size and vulnerable developmental stages in insect predators	84
D. Al Hassan, N. Parisey, F. Burel, M. Plantegenest, P. Kindlmann, A. Butet: Relationship between the abundance of aphids and their natural enemies in cereal fields and landscape composition	89
G. Strauss: Environmental risk assessment for Neodryinus typhlocybae , biological control agent against Metcalfa pruinosa , for Austria	102
G. Lupp: Wilderness – Consequences of a mental construct for landscapes, biodiversity and wilderness management	110
Z. Křenová, H. Kiener: Europe's Wild Heart – still beating? Experiences from a new transboundary wilderness area in the middle of the Old Continent	115
S. Tsiftsis, I. Tsiripidis, P. Trigas, V. Karagiannakidou: The effects of presence/absence vs. continuous suitability data on reserve selection	125