Preface vii
Preface to the second edition ix

1 THE SCOPE OF LINGUISTICS 1
A prospect for linguistics 1
Language, science, and ideology 5
Models and transformations 7
Spoken and written language 10
Linguistics and society 14

2 TRANSFORMATIONS AND TRUTH 15
Transformations and reality 15
Some transformations of normal science; or, a brief essay in the sociology of knowledge 29
Functions of transformations 34
Sources and context 35

3 LANGUAGE AND PROCESSES: MODELS FOR THINGS THAT MOVE 38
Simple science 38
To think as a child 48
The rime of the ancient child 55
Complex fields 57
Sources and context 60

4 CLASSIFICATION AND CONTROL 62
Classification and reality 62
Classification and class 65
Anti-language and anti-society 71
Structures of society, structures of language 77
Sources and context 82

5 UTTERANCES IN DISCOURSE 85
Minimal classification 85
Models of speech and power 91
Sources and context 100

6 CLASSIFICATION AS PROCESS 103
Operations 103
Models and judgments 111
Classification, location, and possession 116
Sources and context 120

7 REALITY, POWER, AND TIME 122
Modality and power 122
Time, tense, and history 128
Sources and context 136

8 NEGATION 137
Visible dialectic 137
Double-think 145
Sources and context 151

9 READING POWER 153
Language and the war in the Arabian Gulf 153
Hunting 'truth' 160
Reading readings 174
Fissured texts 181
Language, system, meaning 193
Beyond Critical Discourse Analysis: a prospective theory of language 201
Critical Discourse Analysis 209
Sources and contexts 212
Appendix 213
