

Contents

Introduction	1
The Nature and Importance of Qualitative Research Methods	2
An Adventure in Qualitative Research Methodology	3
The Road Traveled	6
The Involvement of the Research Participant	7
The Organization and Uses of the Text	10
Note	12
References	12
I. A STORY OF QUALITATIVE RESEARCH IN PSYCHOLOGY
1. From Innovative Practices to the Call for Methodology	15
Qualitative Research in the History of Psychology	16
Sigmund Freud: Uncovering Meaning in Symptoms, Dreams, Errors, and Culture	18
William James: Analyzing the Forms of Spiritual Experience	24
Abraham Maslow: Identifying Qualities of the Healthy Personality	29
Lawrence Kohlberg: Discovering Types of Moral Reasoning in Human Development	36
Gordon Allport's Call for Methodology: The Social Science Research Council's Initiative	42
References	45
2. The Establishment of Methodological Traditions	48
Critical Incident Technique: James Flanagan	48
Phenomenological Psychology: Amedeo Giorgi	52
Grounded Theory: Barney Glaser and Anselm Strauss	56
Discourse Analysis: Jonathan Potter and Margaret Wetherell	60
Narrative Psychology: Jerome Bruner, Ted Sarbin, and Don Polkinghorne	63
Intuitive Inquiry: Rosemarie Anderson	66
From Qualitative Practice to Methodological Traditions	69
References	71

3. Contemporary Movement, Methodological Pluralism, and Challenges	75
Institutionalization of Qualitative Methods as Normal Science	76
Journals	76
Professional Organizations and Conferences	77
The Spread of Qualitative Research through Subfields	78
Key Issues in Qualitative Research	79
Philosophy and Human Science	79
The Qualitative–Quantitative Debate	81
The Generative Tensions of Pluralism	82
Reflexivity and Standpoint	84
Ethics, Power, and Politics	84
Education in Research Methodology and Praxis	86
Criteria and Guidelines for Best Practices	86
The Typical Organization of the Qualitative Research Project	87
Formulation of a Research Problem	87
Participants, Situations, and Data	89
Analytic Methods	91
Report of Findings	93
Delineating the Implications of Research	94
Contributions of Qualitative Research Methods to Psychology	94
The Five Ways Project	95
References	96

II. FIVE APPROACHES TO QUALITATIVE DATA ANALYSIS

4. The Teresa Texts: Thick Description of Living through Misfortune	103
Written Description	104
Interviewer's Introduction	108
Interview Transcript	108
5. A Phenomenological Psychological Approach to Trauma and Resilience	124
Frederick J. Wertz
The Phenomenological Approach	124
The Phenomenological Attitude: Focus on Lived Experience	125
Phenomenological Method: Intentional and Eidetic Analysis	126
The Phenomenological Movement	128
Philosophical and Transdisciplinary Directions	128
Phenomenological Psychology	129
Learning Phenomenology	130
Psychological Research Method Using Lifeworld Descriptions	131
General Analytic Procedures	131
Applications and Exemplary Studies	134
Limits and Critical Evaluation	134
Personal Appeal	135

Method and Sample Findings of Teresa's Experience of Trauma and Resilience	136
Organizing the Data: An Individual Phenomenal Description—Meaning Units	136
Psychological Reflection on Meaning Units	138
Summary of Findings: The Individual Psychological Structure	142
Individual Thematic Findings	145
Toward a General Psychology of Trauma and Resilience	150
Methods of General Analysis	150
General Features in Teresa's Example	152
Broader Comparative Analyses and Levels of Eidetic Generality	156
Completing the Research	159
The Final Report	160
References	161
6. A Constructivist Grounded Theory Analysis of Losing and Regaining a Valued Self	165
Kathy Charmaz
Developments in Grounded Theory	167
Constructing a Grounded Theory of Loss and Regaining a Valued Self	169
Losing and Regaining a Valued Self: A Constructivist Grounded Theory Analysis	176
What Is Loss of Self?	178
Defining Loss of Self	178
Distinguishing between Loss and Disruption of Self	183
Facing Loss	185
Discerning Loss	185
Receiving Bad News	186
Telling News	187
Regaining a Valued Self	189
Making a Comeback	190
Drawing on Lessons from the Past	191
Discovering an Audible Voice	192
Learning to Live with Uncertainty	193
Realizing the Dream	195
Implications	196
Notes	198
References	200
7. A Discursive Analysis of Teresa's Protocol: Enhancing Oneself, Diminishing Others	205
Linda M. McMullen
The Process of My Analysis	208
My Analysis: Enhancing Oneself, Diminishing Others	211
Pattern One	211
Pattern Two	214

- Summary* 218
Contextualizing My Analysis 219
 Conclusion 222
 References 222
 Additional Examples of Discourse Analysis 223
- 8. Narrative Research: Constructing, Deconstructing, and Reconstructing Story 224
Ruthellen Josselson
- Narrative Analysis 228
 The Current Project 228
 Overall Characteristics of the Narrative 229
 Procedure to Identify Themes 232
 Emotion and Logic 232
 Identity 235
 Relations with Others 236
 Summary 238
 The Narrative Research Project 238
 Notes 240
 References 240
- 9. Intuitive Inquiry: Exploring the Mirroring Discourse of Disease 243
Rosemarie Anderson
- Overview 243
 What Is Intuition? 246
 Five Cycles of Interpretation 249
 Cycle 1: Clarifying the Research Topic 250
 Cycle 2: Preliminary Interpretive Lenses 251
 Cycle 3: Collecting Data and Preparing Descriptive Reports 253
 Cycle 4: Transforming and Revising Interpretive Lenses 254
 Cycle 5: Integration of Findings and Theory Building 255
 Analyses of Teresa and Reno Interviews 256
 Cycle 1: Clarifying the Research Topic: Reverse Mirroring Discourse of Disease 256
 Cycle 2: Researcher's Preliminary Lenses about the Topic 264
 Cycle 3: Collecting and Analyzing Additional Data 265
 Cycle 4: Combining the Teresa and Reno Analyses: The Mirroring Discourse of Disease 269
 Cycle 5: Integration of Findings and Literature Review 270
 Coda 271
 Notes 271
 Recommended Readings 272
 References 272

III. PLURALISM, PARTICIPATION, AND UNITY IN QUALITATIVE RESEARCH

10. Comparisons through Five Lenses	279
The Lens of Phenomenological Psychology: Frederick Wertz	280
Grounded Theory and Phenomenological Psychology	280
Discourse Analysis and Phenomenological Psychology	283
Narrative Research and Phenomenological Psychology	285
Intuitive Inquiry and Phenomenological Psychology	289
The Lens of Constructivist Grounded Theory: Kathy Charmaz	291
Phenomenological Psychology and Constructivist Grounded Theory	293
Discourse Analysis and Constructivist Grounded Theory	297
Narrative Research and Constructivist Grounded Theory	301
Intuitive Inquiry and Constructivist Grounded Theory	303
The Lens of Discourse Analysis: Linda McMullen	304
Phenomenological Psychology and Discourse Analysis	305
Constructivist Grounded Theory and Discourse Analysis	308
Narrative Research and Discourse Analysis	310
Intuitive Inquiry and Discourse Analysis	312
The Lens of Narrative Research: Ruthellen Josselson	314
Phenomenological Psychology and Narrative Research	317
Constructivist Grounded Theory and Narrative Research	318
Discourse Analysis and Narrative Research	319
Intuitive Inquiry and Narrative Research	320
The Lens of Intuitive Inquiry: Rosemarie Anderson	321
Phenomenological Psychology and Intuitive Inquiry	322
Constructivist Grounded Theory and Intuitive Inquiry	323
Discourse Analysis and Intuitive Inquiry	325
Narrative Research and Intuitive Inquiry	326
Unique Characteristics of Intuitive Inquiry	327
Similarity and Difference among Analytic Approaches	329
Significant Commonalities	330
Next: The Participant's Experience of the Analyses	331
References	332
11. The Participant's Response	334
Of My Voice, in My Voice: Emily McSpadden	335
Reading the Analyses	341
Intuitive Inquiry	342
Constructivist Grounded Theory	344
Narrative Research	345
Discourse Analysis	346
Phenomenological Psychology	348
Final Thoughts	350

12. Ethics, Participant Involvement, and Analytic Methodology	353
Ethical Perspective: Relational Craft	354
Ethics of Collaboration	354
Starting Point: Principles and Procedures of Human Protection	355
Ownership of the Data	355
Confidentiality and Disclosure	356
The Involvement of the Participant in Research: Scientific, Social, and Personal Horizons	358
"Researcher" and "Participant" as Positions Assumed by Persons	359
The Issue of Interpretive Authority	362
Emily's Response to the Analyses	364
The Researchers' Relation to Participants' Responses	366
An Ongoing Conversation between Scientific and Lay Communities	367
Foundations, Compatible Options, and Specializations of Qualitative Methodology: Unity among Multiple Commensurate Approaches	367
Foundations of Qualitative Analytic Practice	368
Potentially Common Variations of Analytic Praxis	374
Differences among Analytic Approaches: Specialization in Qualitative Research	380
Complementary Findings: Multifaceted Knowledge	383
Traumatic Misfortune	385
Life Historical Process	386
Embodiment	386
Sociality	387
Agency	388
Language	389
Spirituality	390
Selfhood	391
Lessons Learned: Individual Voices	392
Fred Wertz	392
Kathy Charmaz	393
Linda McMullen	394
Ruthellen Josselson	396
Rosemarie Anderson	397
Take-Home Messages	398
References	401
Appendix. Gail's Texts	403
Written Description	403
Written Protocol	404
Introduction to the Interview	407
Interview Transcript	408
Author Index	415
Subject Index	421
About the Authors	433