

'Clearly written and combining rigorous theory with practical insights, Comparing Democracies 3 is essential reading for anyone interested in the extent and depth of democratization in the early twenty-first century.'

Ian McAllister, Distinguished Professor of Political Science, The Australian National University

'The first two editions of Comparing Democracies were widely appreciated for giving us an excellent introduction to most of the key themes in the study of modern democracies. The editors must be applauded for once again providing state of the art reviews of key topics by leading scholars in an accessible style.'

Michael Marsh, Professor of Comparative Political Behaviour, Trinity College Dublin

The benchmark first and second editions of Comparing Democracies represented essential guides to the global study of elections. Reflecting recent developments in the field, this timely new edition gives an indispensable state-of-the art review of the whole field from the world's leading international scholars. With a completely new thematic introduction which explores how democracy is built and sustained, and many new or thoroughly updated chapters, the third edition provides a theoretical and comparative understanding of the major topics related to elections and introduces important work on key new areas. Comparing Democracies 3 will remain a must-read for students and lecturers of elections and voting behaviour, comparative politics, parties, and democracy.

Lawrence LeDuc is Professor of Political Science at the University of Toronto, Canada
