

Contents

Editorial	5
• Hartmut Mayer and Jan Zielonka
Europe as a Global Player: A View from China	7
• Chen Zhimin
The European Union as a Global Power: Indian Perceptions	31
• Rajendra K. Jain
Brazil's Strategies and Partnerships: The Place of the European Union	45
• Miriam Gomes Saraiva
Europe as Seen from Russia	63
• Vladimir Baranovsky and Sergey Utkin
Europe as Seen from Turkey: From a Strategic Goal to an Instrumental Partnership EU	83
• Atila Eralp and Zerrin Torun
A Japanese View of the EU	103
• Ryo Oshiba
Reviews	129►140
Darina Malová et al.: From Listening to Action? New Member States in the European Union – Bratislava: Devin Printing House, s.r.o., 2010, 221 pages, ISBN 978-80-89493-00-5.	129
• Jan Karlas
Stephen G. Brooks: Producing Security: Multinational Corporations, Globalization, and the Changing Calculus of Conflict – Princeton: Princeton University Press, 2007, 336 pages, ISBN 9781400841301.	131
• Jakub Tomášek
Thomas Lindemann: Causes of War. The Struggle for Recognition – Colchester: ECPR Press, University of Essex, 2010, 176 pages, ISBN 978-1-9073010-1-8 (paperback).	136
• Eva Petřlová
Yuning Gao: China as the Workshop of the World – New York: Routledge, 2012, 223 pages, ISBN: 978-0-203-80782-8 (ebk).	139
• Lukasz Ponikiewski
Brooke A. Ackerly, Maria Stern and Jacqui True (eds): Feminist Methodologies for International Relations – Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2006, 330 pages ISBN 0-521-67835-8 (paperback).	140
• Katri Vaaks
Notes on Contributors	141