

CONTENTS

ESSAYS

Miloš Brunclík

Three technocratic cabinets in the Czech Republic:
a symptom of party failure?

7–28

Ladislav Cabada and Matevž Tomšič

The rise of person-based politics in the new democracies:
the Czech Republic and Slovenia

29–50

Andrea Fumarola

Much more than Economy: Assessing electoral Accountability in the CEE Member States

51–68

Miroslav Mareš

Anti-Romani Terrorism in Europe

69–91

DISCUSSION

Petr Just

Czech Protest Movements in the 2014 European Parliament Elections

93–99

GUIDELINES FOR AUTHORS

105–109

1. This article is the result of a project (numbered project no. 15-01306) of the Czech Direct for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Czech Republic, 'Exploring the Working of the Political System in the Czech Republic'. The project is sponsored by the Grant Agency of the Czech Republic.

2. I would like to thank to past PRG Czechologists, the cabinet led by M. Čada between 1994 and 1997, and to the current PRG Czechologists following Čada's resignation from the cabinet and their in January 1998: M. Hlaváček and Kopeček (2002: 44–52).