

Table of Contents

Table of Cases	xiii
Table of Legislation	xix
1. Introducing Vulnerability	1
2. Defining Vulnerability	5
Introduction	5
The meaning of vulnerability	6
Politics and vulnerability	31
Duties to the vulnerable	33
Critiques of vulnerability	35
Vulnerability is good	37
Conclusion	41
3. Vulnerable Adults and Capacity	45
Introduction	45
The basic legal structure	45
Mental capacity	46
The importance of autonomy	53
The failure of MCA and capacity to protect autonomy	54
Solving the problem	64
Relational autonomy	66
Conclusion	69
4. The Use of the Inherent Jurisdiction and Vulnerable People	71
Introduction	71
The historical background	72
The relationship between the inherent jurisdiction and the Mental Capacity Act 2005	77
Who is subject to the inherent jurisdiction?	80
Abusive relationships	86
Autonomy	88
Best interests	90
Cases where the inherent jurisdiction was not used	94
Conclusion	95

5. Vulnerable Adults and Human Rights	97
Introduction	97
The right to protection	97
Proof of an interference of a right	99
Level of knowledge required	109
What is required of the state?	114
Remedies for breach of human rights	128
Discussion	131
The limitations of a human rights based approach	132
Conclusion	133
6. Public Authorities and Vulnerable Adults	135
Introduction	135
Definition of abuse	136
Statistics on abuse	139
Reports of abuse	141
Some general themes	146
An overview of the Care Act 2014	152
The well-being principle	153
Prevention	158
Core duties to assess	159
Safeguarding	165
Conclusion	181
7. Criminal Law and the Protection of Vulnerable Adults	183
Introduction	183
The protection of vulnerable adults in the criminal law	184
Exploitation	185
Criminalizing exploitation in practice	191
Rule of law and exploitation	193
Protection and paternalism	195
Shared vulnerabilities	202
Espacial protection for the vulnerable	207
Conclusion	222
8. Contract Law and Vulnerability	225
Introduction	225
The principle of freedom of contract	226
Misrepresentation	229
Mistake	232
The signature rule and 'non est factum'	235

Rectification	238
Duress	239
Undue influence	243
Unconscionable bargains	250
Statutory protections	252
A vulnerability based contract law	257
Conclusion	261
9. Concluding Thoughts	263
Rethinking the norm	263
Breaking down the boundaries	264
De-centring autonomy	265
Rethinking responsibilities	266
The dangers of vulnerability	266
Can the law do it all?	267
Index	269