

Contents

Introduction: Constitutionalism 3.0	I
The Law of a Free People	I
Powers	2
The Ideal and the Real, the Part and the Whole	4
Judicial Review: Three Positions	6
The Essence of Constitutional Adjudication	7
Superlegality as Legality With a Trump Card	8
The Turn to Human Dignity and Human Rights	9
Constitutionalism as a Project of Emancipation	10
The More General Meaning of Human Dignity	12
Positive Obligations, Third-Party Effect, and Institutions	13
The Striking Irrelevance of the “Counter-Majoritarian Difficulty”	15
The New Essence of Constitutional Adjudication	16
From Human Rights to Peer Review	17
The Margin of Appreciation	19
From the Social Compact to the Abstention from Resistance	19
Political Constitutionalism Redux	20
The Brave New World of Exigencies	22
Beyond Emancipation: Toward Authoritarian Liberalism	23
The Two Faces of the Cosmopolitan Constitution	24
The Political Face	25
Virtual Representation	26
Being Represented by Not Being There	27
The Darling Dogma	28
The Internal Ambivalence	30
Conventions in Lieu of Judgment	31
Responsiveness	33
The Question of the State	33
I. One Point Zero: Powers	36
The Constitution as Law	36
The Radical Pluralism of the Mixed Constitution	39
The Ancient Constitution	42
The Trouble With Absolute Prerogative	45
Protoconstitutionalism: The Divide Between Sovereignty and Law	47
The Fateful Antinomy	51
From The Ancient Constitution to the Rights of Men	53

Checks and Balances: More Than Political Constitutionalism	56
Judicial Review Qua Proxy Resistance	58
Federalism	61
Constitutional Theory and the Problem of Interpretation	63
Powers	65
Determining Powers	66
The Unruly Nature of Legal Powers	67
Rationality	69
What a Constitution is For	70
A Note on the People	71
Early Epiphanies of 2.0 and 3.0	73
2. Two Point Zero: Recognition	79
Comprehensiveness	79
From Antinomy to Paradox	82
Constitution as Recognition	84
The Somewhat Surprising Disappearance of the Counter-majoritarian Difficulty	87
Kelsen's Court	88
Heterogeneous Chunks of Power	90
The Counterconstitution	92
The Radiating Effect	97
Effects of the Value Order	100
The Question is, of Course, More Effective than What?	102
Interference and Elaboration	104
The Demise of Constitutional Interpretation	106
The New Conception of Superlegality	109
Proportionality and Equality	110
Pre-Constitutional Superlegality	114
The Elaboration of Rights	116
Elaboration as Interference	117
The Backwards-Looking Take on Elaboration	119
The Institutional Vision	121
Not Just Negative Liberty	123
Suhr on Social Freedom	124
Adjudication as a Practice	127
A Practice of Self-determination	128
Conclusion	133
3. Dignity and Emancipation	134
One Obvious Obstacle and Three Intuitions	134
A Sociological Reconstruction of this Obstacle	136
The Puzzle of Dignity in its Accommodating Form	137
The Other Obstacle (Without Intuitions)	138
Removing Obstacles, One at a Time	140
The Predominant Account and the Teleological Alternative	141
Maritain: Being Person	142

Schiller: Rising Above Impulses	144
Being Seen and Judged as Who One Is	145
A Taken-For-Granted Achievement	148
The Threat of Disruption	149
The Holocaust Shock	152
The Full Package of Human Rights	155
Reconstructing Dignity From Beyond Itself	157
The Private Polity	158
The External State	160
The Latent Political Dimension of the Private Polity	161
Rational Volition and Dissociation	162
The Freedom to Be Who One Is	165
Being in a State of Self-Repair	167
More Than Freedom of Choice	169
Social Freedom and Human Rights	171
Dignity as Responsibility	172
Conclusion	173
4. Three Point Zero: Transcendence	176
Peer Review	176
Foreign Precedents	178
European Human Rights Protection	179
Explaining its Existence	181
Evolutive Interpretation	183
The Margin of Appreciation	185
Culturally Determined Risk Evaluation	189
Limits to Supranational Authority	191
Pluralisms	193
The Return of Political Constitutionalism	196
Yielding and Trust	200
Bourgeois Citizenship	201
Postnational Citizenship	205
More Bourgeois Citizenship	209
The Class That Matters	210
The Changing Horizon of Time	212
Empowering Proportionality	216
Recent Examples	217
From Observing Pedigree to Governance by Situations	222
Administration Without Sovereignty	225
Managerial Anarchy	228
Commodification	232
Panglossian Glosses	233
The Demise of the People	237
Forward with Aristotle and Machiavelli	241
5. The Two Faces of the Cosmopolitan Constitution	244
Core ideas	244

The Darling Dogma Stated	248
The Liberal Interpretation	249
A Genuine Constitutional Constraint	250
Virtual Representation	251
The Democratic Interpretation	252
The Dogma's True Scandal	253
Respecting National Democracies	255
Toward a Democratic Interpretation of Rights	258
Virtual Representation, Again	258
Neoliberal Slippage	260
Bourgeois Bias	260
Real Cosmopolitan Citizenship	261
The Significance of the Place: Stakeholders and Social Freedom	264
The Brittleness of Social Freedom	266
Money-making and Social Justice	268
Detachment and Market Justice	270
Internal Cosmopolitanism	270
Collective Self-determination: Political and Dependent	272
The Internal Cosmopolitan Outlook	273
The Catch	275
Civic Interpassivity	276
Good Reasons	279
Wagers of Responsiveness	280
Conclusion	281
Index	285