

CONTENTS

|  |           |
|--|-----------|
| Preface to the English Edition                          | viii      |
| Introduction: The Migrant, the Border and the World     | 1  |
| Blocked at the border  | 2         |
| Indifference and solidarities                                  | 3         |
| Borders and walls  | 5         |
| Borderlands and their inhabitants: a banal cosmopolitanism     | 6         |
| Part I Decentring the World                             |           |
| 1 The Elementary Forms of the Border                    | 15 |
| The border as centre of reflection                             | 16        |
| Temporal, social and spatial dimensions of the border ritual   | 18        |
| Community and locality: the border as social fact              | 19        |
| An anthropology of/in the border                               | 23        |
| 2 The World as 'Problem'                                | 37 |
| War at the borders   | 37        |
| Is the world a problem? Cosmopolitical reality and realpolitik | 39        |
| Violence at the border: the outside of the nation              | 46        |
| Walls of war   | 53        |

CONTENTS

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| 3 Border Dwellers and Borderlands: Studies of Banal Cosmopolitanism | 58  |
| The border dwellers: figures and places of relative foreignness            | 59         |
| Being-in-the-world on the border: a new cosmopolitan condition             | 71         |
| Part II The Decentred Subject                                       |            |
| 4 Questions of Method: Decentring Reconsidered Today                | 83  |
| A critical moment: the contemporary turn in anthropology                   | 84         |
| The end of the 'great divide'  | 87         |
| Decentring reconceived   | 95         |
| A contemporary and situational anthropology                                | 101        |
| 5 Civilization, Culture, Race: Three Explorations in Identity       | 106 |
| Civilization as hyper-border: mirrors of Africa                            | 107        |
| The migration of spirits: mobilities and identity-based cultures           | 116        |
| Race and racism: how can one be black?                                     | 125        |
| Escaping the identity trap   | 134        |
| 6 Logics and Politics of the Subject                                | 137 |
| An anthropology of the subject   | 137        |
| The decentred subject: three situational analyses                          | 146        |
| Moments and politics of the other-subject                                  | 153        |
| Conclusion: Towards an Anthropology of the Cosmopolitan Condition   | 155 |
| Notes   | 158        |
| Index   | 177        |