

Contents

Preface	viii
Acknowledgements	x
Part 1 Context
1 Introduction	3
Case study – The rise of TripAdvisor	11
2 The history of tourist behaviour	14
Case study – The international spa and health wellness market	40
3 Main concepts in consumer behaviour, including models of consumer behaviour adapted for tourism	46
Case study – Las Vegas, Nevada, USA	56
Part 2 The purchase-decision process
4 Motivators	75
Case study – Adventure tourism in New Zealand	86
5 Determinants	94
Case study – PGL adventure holidays	101
6 Models of the purchase decision-making process	108
Case study – Gay and lesbian tourism in Australia	120
Part 3 Typologies of tourist behaviour
7 Typologies of tourist behaviour and segmentation of the tourism market	129
Case study – Irhal.com: the leading travel information source for Muslims by Saskia Faulk	149
Case study – Segmenting the leisure shopping market	153

Part 4 Tourism demand and markets

8	The global pattern of tourism demand	159
	Case study – Taiwan: the emergence of a new major outbound tourism market	168
9	National differences: domestic, outbound and inbound	170
	Case study – The segmentation of the outbound Japanese market	183
10	The nature of demand in different segments of the tourism market	188
	Case study – The inbound market to the Republic of Cyprus	199
	Case study – Thomas Cook’s Club 18–30	206
11	Consumer experience in tourism marketing	214
	Case study – Bikes, birds and bullets: niche tourism in South Africa by Saskia Faulk	224
	Case study – Ragdale Hall health hydro and thermal spa	233
	Case study – easyJet: the rise of a no-frills low-cost carrier (LCC)	239

Part 5 Consumer behaviour and marketing

12	Researching tourist behaviour: marketing research	249
	Case study – Discovering clients’ longings: Kuoni Travel Compass by Saskia Faulk	267
13	The marketing mix and tourist behaviour	275
	Case study – First Choice Holidays’ all-inclusive package	287
	Case study – See the bigger picture: positioning Burbank for tourists as the media capital of the world by Saskia Faulk	294

Part 6 Topical issues in consumer behaviour

14	The ‘ethical tourist’: myth or reality?	305
	Case study – British Airways: environmental policy	319
	Case study – TUI, Germany: environmental policy	328
15	Quality and tourist satisfaction	338
	Case study – The Savoy Hotel, London	350
16	The emergence of new markets and changes in tourist demand	357
	Case study – The environmental activist traveller: new dimensions by Saskia Faulk	375
17	The role of information and communication technologies in tourism	383
	Case study – A never-ending process: the role of guest reviews online in the provision of quality service by Saskia Faulk	401

Part 7 Conclusions and future

18	Conclusions	409
	Case study – New Zealand’s ‘Home of Middle-earth’ campaign by Saskia Faulk	413
19	The future of tourist behaviour	424
	Glossary of terms	438
	Index	443