Domains of Knowledge in Biodynamic Craniosacral Therapy	xxiii
SECTION I. HISTORY AND LITERATURE REVIEW
Chapter 1. The Second Inspiration	3
Chapter 2. The Primary Respiratory System Model	9
Chapter 3. Comparison with Other Models	23
Tissue Pressure Model	26
Pressurestat Model	27
Entrainment Model	28
Relevant Models from Other Fields	30
Model Efficacy	35
Conclusion	36
Chapter 4. Transpersonal Dimensions of Biodynamic Practice	37
Transpersonal Dimensions	44
Depth Psychology	48
Psychodynamics	54
SECTION II. EMBRYOLOGY
Chapter 5. A Creation Story: How the One Became Two and the Two Found a Middle (with illustrations by Friedrich Wolf)	61
Chapter 6. The Speech of the Embryo (by Jaap van der Wal)	83
The Body As an Instrument of the Soul?	86
Embryonic Behavior	88
Das Seelische übt Sich Voraus? (Is the Soul Being Pre-Exercised?)	92
Centripetal Existence	95
In That Very Moment ...	98
A Tale about an Unimaginable Existence	99
From Beyond to Here	101
Conclusion	102

Chapter 7. Embryogenesis: Biodynamic Theory and Principles	105
Ontogeny Does Not Recapitulate Phylogeny	106
Adult Function Is Pre-Exercised in the Embryo	107
Wholeness and Teratology	108
Polarities	110
Self-Regulation	112
Epigenesis and Preformation: Polarities	115
Two Bodies	119
Conclusion: Resistance and Freedom	120
Chapter 8. A Metabolic Model of Biodynamic Craniosacral Therapy (With Commentary by Dr. Jaap van der Wal, MD, PhD)	123
Review and Summary	133
Chapter 9. Human Conception: How to Overcome Reproduction? (A Phenomenological Approach to Human Fertilization by Jaap van der Wal, MD, PhD)	137
The Approach of Dynamic Morphology	137
To Start With: The Dynamics of the Human Egg Cell	139
The Other Way Around: Comparing and Contrasting As Method	141
The One to Be Met: The Morphodynamics of Human Sperm Cells	141
What Is Visibility? The Question of Contrast and/or Polarity	143
Periphery and Center: Cytoplasm versus Nucleus	146
Mating Dance: The Pre-Conception Attraction Complex	147
Exposition to a Higher Level: Steigerung (Raising and Intensification)	150
Human Conception: Beyond the Act of Reproduction	153
Artificial Reproduction Technology (ART): What Are We Doing?	154
Chapter 10. Ignition: The Therapeutic Process	157
Conception Ignition	159
Heart Ignition	164
Birth Ignition	169
Somatic Ignition	173
Summary	176
Chapter 11. Rolwing and Biodynamics: A Conversation with Michael Shea, PhD (by Thomas Walker and Gale Loveitt, Certified Advanced Rolfers)	177
SECTION III. BIODYNAMIC SKILLS AND PRINCIPLES OF PRACTICE
Chapter 12. The Primary Respiratory System: Perceptual Understanding	197
The Void and Dynamic Stillness	197

The Body of the Long Tide: The Breath of Life	200
The Body of the Long Tide: Primary Respiration	202
The Mid Tide: The Continuity in the Body of the Whole Fluid Field	207
The Soma and the CRI	215
Summary	217
Chapter 13. The Basic Skills of Biodynamic Craniosacral Therapy	219
Chapter 14. Principles of Biodynamic Practice	229
Chapter 15. Progressive Stages of Sensing Primary Respiration	235
Meditations on Primary Respiration	238
Chapter 16. The Inherent Plan of Being	243
Clarity	243
Openness	244
Warmth	245
Longing	246
Simplicity	246
Courage	247
Chapter 17. Primary Respiration and Health	249
Meditation: The Egg	253
Chapter 18. The Four Foundations of Stillness	257
A Stillness Meditation	261
Chapter 19. Tonglen Meditation	263
Tonglen Meditation Instruction	264
SECTION IV. BIODYNAMIC APPROACHES WITH INFANTS AND CHILDREN
Chapter 20. Baby Therapist	273
Chapter 21. Hemispheric Lateralization	283
Chapter 22. The Amygdala	285
Chapter 23. Self-Regulation and Attachment in Infancy (With Judith Suarez)	295
Secure Attachment: Well-Attuned	299
Insecure Attachment: Avoidant or Ambivalent	300
Insecure Attachment: Misattuned	301
Insecure Attachment: Disorganized and Disoriented	302
Components of Attachment	303
Chapter 24. Orienting to the Long Tide	307
Inside and Outside Presence	309

The Creation Story	309
The Interview	311
Attending to the Family System and the Existence of Any Stress	312
Informed Consent	314
Orienting to the Midline	315
Negotiating Contact	315
Acknowledgment	316
Space, Time, and Choices	317
Review	318
Chapter 25. Orienting to the Mid Tide and Soma	321
Chapter 26. Transition Physiology (by Margaret Scott)	335
Normal Adult Breathing	335
So, What Is It Like to Be a Fetus?	337
Transition	338
Changes in Circulation at Birth	339
SECTION V. PERSPECTIVES ON DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY
Chapter 27. The Origin Mythology of the Embryo and the Breath of Life (A Conversation between Barry Williams, PsyD, and Michael Shea, PhD, January 2006)	345
Chapter 28. The New Dispensation	367
Chapter 29. Symbolic Regression	375
Chapter 30. Metaphors of the Midline	383
Polarities	385
The Transcendent Function	386
The Archetype	388
The Midline of Conception and Creation	389
The Tree of Life	391
The Principle of Sacred Space	393
The Principle of Containment	395
Meditation: Be Still and Know	397
Chapter 31. The Five Stages of Biodynamic Practice	399
Stage 1—Separation: Practitioner Stillness and Synchronization     with Primary Respiration	401
Stage 2—Invocation: Heart Ignition	402
Stage 3—Identification: Client Primary Respiration Attunement     by Practitioner	406

Stage 4—Transformation: Witnessing Engagement of Primary         Respiration in the Client	409
Stage 5—Disengagement: Closure of Session	411
Review	414
Chapter 32. The Song of Biodynamics	417
Appendix A. The Relational Field and Traditional Craniosacral Therapy Skills	423
Sensory Skills Relating to the Mid Tide	423
Wholistic Shift	424
Automatic Shifting	424
The State of Balanced Stillness	424
Stillpoint	425
Specific Palpation Skills with Tissue Motility, Structure, and Function	430
Exploring Trauma and Shock	441
Appendix B. Glossary	445
Appendix C. Resources	493
Appendix D. The Power of Touch	495
The Power of Touch	495
The Biodynamic Craniosacral Model	495
Stress	496
Helping the Body Heal Itself	496
A Healing Relationship	496
What to Expect	497
