

Contents

Notes on contributors

- | | | |
|---|--|-----|
| 1 | Introduction: being at home with the Empire
Catherine Hall and Sonya Rose | i |
| 2 | At home with history: Macaulay and the History of England
Catherine Hall | 32 |
| 3 | A homogeneous society? Britain's internal 'others', 1800–present
Laura Tabili | 53 |
| 4 | At home with the Empire: the example of Ireland
Christine Kinealy | 77 |
| 5 | The condition of women, women's writing and the Empire in nineteenth-century Britain
Jane Rendall | 101 |
| 6 | Sexuality and empire
Philippa Levine | 122 |
| 7 | Religion and empire at home
Susan Thorne | 143 |
| 8 | Metropolitan desires and colonial connections: reflections on consumption and empire
Joanna de Groot | 166 |
| 9 | Imagining empire: history, fantasy and literature
Cora Kaplan | 191 |

10	New narratives of imperial politics in the nineteenth century Antoinette Burton	212
11	Bringing the Empire home: women activists in imperial Britain, 1790s–1930s Clare Midgley	230
12	Taking class notes on empire James Epstein	251
13	Citizenship and empire, 1867–1928 Keith McClelland and Sonya Rose	275
	Select bibliography	298
	Index	330