

Contents

INTRODUCTION	1
PART ONE: STARS AS A SOCIAL PHENOMENON	5
1 Conditions for Stardom	7
2 Production: Consumption	9
Origins of stardom	9
Stars as a phenomenon of production	10
Stars as a phenomenon of consumption	17
3 Ideology	20
Star versus character	20
Life-as-theatre	20
A historical paradigm – from gods to mortals	21
Stars and the status quo	23
Compensation	28
Charisma	30
PART TWO: STARS AS IMAGES	33
4 Stars as Stars	35
Consumption	35
Success	42
Ordinariness – are stars ‘different’?	43
The dream soured	44
Love	45
5 Stars as Types	47
The notion of social type	47
Alternative or subversive types	52
6 Stars as Specific Images	60
A specific image: Jane Fonda	63
PART THREE: STARS AS SIGNS	87
7 Stars and ‘Character’	89
The notion of character	90
The construction of character	106
Stars as characters in films	126
8 Stars and Performance	132
Trends in the study of performance	132
Performance signs	134
9 A Note on Authorship	151
CONCLUSION	160
BIBLIOGRAPHY	164
SUPPLEMENTARY CHAPTER: RECONCEPTUALISING STARDOM	175
SUPPLEMENTARY BIBLIOGRAPHY	201
INDEX	213