Part One: Introduction

1. A Theory of Music Analysis	3
Theory	5
Three Domains: Sonic, Contextual, and Structural	5
Five Levels: Orientations, Criteria, Segments, Associative Sets, and Associative Landscapes	9
Overview of the Analyses	13
Setting the Theory in Perspective	15

Part Two: Theory

2. Orientations, Criteria, Segments	19
Orientations	19
Disjunction (D)	19
Association (A)	20
Theory (H)	20
Criteria	23
Sonic Criteria (S)	23
Sonic Criteria: Formal Aspects	24
Subtypes S_1 and S_2 , and Some Individual Sonic Criteria	26
Interactions among Individual Sonic Criteria	31
Contextual Criteria (C)	32
Contextual Criteria: Formal Aspects	34
Some Contextual Subtypes and Individual Criteria	35
Interactions among Contextual Criteria: Subtypes and Individual Criteria	39
Interactions between Sonic and Contextual Criteria	42
Structural Criteria (T)	43
Structural Criteria: Formal Aspects	44
Some Structural Subtypes and Individual Criteria	46
Interactions between Structural and Sonic or Contextual Criteria: Basics of Realization	50
Systematic Realization: Linked Types (Structural-Sonic, Structural-Contextual)	50

Nonsystematic Realization: Functionally Independent S+T and C+T Criteria	53
Systematic and Nonsystematic Realization: Illustrations and Interactions	53
Interactions among Individual Structural Criteria	58
Interactions among Sonic, Contextual, and Structural Criteria	59
Structure and Design: A Tripartite Division	62
Segments	62
Genosegments	63
Phenosegments	65
Some Conceptual Aspects of Genosegments and Phenosegments	71
Different Perceptual Planes and Analytic Notations	71
Levels of Analysis	71
Genosegs, Phenosegs, Genotypes: Useful Connotations from the Biological Terms	72
Orientations, Criteria, Segments: Analytical Illustrations	73
3. Associative Sets and Associative Organization	97
Associative Sets, Configurations, and Graphs	98
Associative Sets	98
Properties of Associative Sets	101
Common Sets and Motive	114
Associative Configurations and Association Graphs	118
Some Useful Concepts and Definitions from Graph Theory	119
Association Graphs and Digraphs	123
Issues in Representation	146
Evolutions of Association Graphs and Associative Reconfiguration	151
Thinking about Associative Sets	157
Associative Landscapes	159
Association Maps	160
Internal Dispositions and Distributions	163
Distributions	174
External Dispositions	186
Features in the Landscape	207
Contacts	207
Associative Discontinuities	216
Contextual Focus, Sonic Focus	218
Emergent Properties of Associative Landscapes	223
Patch-Matrix Relations	224

High-Profile and Low-Profile Associative Landscapes	227
Homogeneity and Heterogeneity: Material and Compositional	230
Associative Sets, Landscapes, and Levels	235

Part Three: Six Analyses

4. Beethoven, Piano Sonata No. 2 in A Major, Op. 2, No. 2, I: Associative Organization and Tonal Structure	241
First Pass: The Associative Landscape	241
Second Pass: Cross-Domain Comparative Analysis	261
5. Debussy, "Harmonie du soir," Cinq poèmes de Baudelaire , No. 2: Associative Organization and Form in Text and Music	269
Baudelaire's "Harmonie du soir"	270
Debussy's Setting of "Harmonie du soir"	274
6. Nancarrow, Study No. 37 : Calibrated Canons, Changeable Landscapes	291
Structure of the Tempo Canon	291
Form and Process in the Study No. 37 : Changeable Landscapes	294
7. Riley, In C : Configurations and Landscape Studies of Select Plots in Four Performances	309
Definitions and Translations of Terms	310
Associative Sets and Associative Configurations	313
Comparative Analysis of Performances	317
Three Short Landscape Studies	322
8. Feldman, Palais de Mari : Pattern and Design in a Changing Landscape	331
The Opening Passage, Measures 1–73	332
The Closing Passage, Measures 287–437	344
9. Morris, Nine Piano Pieces : Between Moment and Memory— Reflections on and among the Nine	360
Preliminaries	361
Terminology	361
Structural Properties of the String	362
Arrays and Aspects of Realization	362
"Between"	363
"Kids"	375
"Rising Early"	384
"Loose Canon"	394
"Glimpse"	396

Part Four: Outward and Onward

10. Further Considerations and Extended Applications	403
Association and Transformation	403
Comparative Analysis with Association Graphs and Transformation Networks: A Case Study	406
Using the Schematic of the General Theory: Spaces and Traversals	414
Theory	415
Spaces	415
Traversals	417
Applications 1: Comparative Analysis of Musical Spaces	422
Musical Styles	423
Theories and Analyses	425
Applications 2: Traversals and Processes	426
Crossing the Concept-Object Interface	427
"Top-Down" and "Bottom-Up" Analysis	430
Notes	435
Glossary	481
Bibliography	489
Index of Names and Subjects	503
Index of Works	523
