

CONTENTS

Figures and Exhibits	ix
Dedication	x
Foreword	xi
Preface	xv
Acknowledgments	xxii
About the Author	xxiv
About Campus Compact	xxvi
CHAPTER 1: Introduction to Service-Learning	1
1.1 What is service-learning?	1
1.2 What are the theoretical foundations of service-learning?	5
1.3 What else can we call service-learning if that term does not work for us?	10
1.4 What are the benefits of service-learning?	11
1.5 What is the history of service-learning?	14
1.6 How widespread is service-learning?	18
1.7 What should an institution offer in the way of service-learning?	21
1.8 How does service-learning vary by institutional type?	23
Conclusion	25
CHAPTER 2: Understanding and Facilitating Critical Reflection	26
2.1 What is critical reflection?	26
2.2 What are the forms of reflection?	29
2.3 What are the steps in designing and implementing critical reflection?	31
2.4 How can critical reflection empower students to move beyond direct service to other forms of civic and political engagement?	42
2.5 How can I make reflection work in my discipline?	45
2.6 How does reflection work in cocurricular service-learning, especially one-time or short-term experiences?	48
Conclusion	50

CHAPTER 3: Developing and Sustaining Campus-Community Partnerships for Service-Learning	51
3.1 What are the definition and basic principles of campus-community partnerships for service-learning?	52
3.2 What are the different types of service-learning partnerships?	56
3.3 What are the steps to developing a service-learning partnership?	58
3.4 What are the logistical issues involved in service-learning partnerships?	63
3.5 What are the best practices for developing and sustaining partnerships?	65
3.6 What infrastructure should an institution have in place for developing and sustaining campus-community partnerships?	69
3.7 Should campus-community partnerships include corporate partners? How?	71
3.8 What are the key issues for international partnerships for service-learning?	73
3.9 How can small-scale partnerships for service-learning lead to broader and deeper institutional engagement?	75
Conclusion	79
CHAPTER 4: Integrating Service-Learning into the Curriculum	80
4.1 When is service-learning the right pedagogy for a course?	80
4.2 How does service-learning work in my discipline?	82
4.3 Is service-learning academically rigorous?	86
4.4 What are the different models for integrating service-learning into the curriculum?	88
4.5 How do I start developing a service-learning course?	100
4.6 How should I assess and grade service-learning?	103
4.7 What are the unique elements of a service-learning syllabus?	106
4.8 What are the logistical issues involved in teaching a service-learning course?	109
4.9 How does service-learning work in an online or blended course?	111
4.10 Should service-learning courses be formally designated?	113
4.11 What does it take to motivate and support faculty to practice service-learning?	115
4.12 How can service-learning be valued in the faculty review, promotion, and tenure process?	117
4.13 How can service-learning lead to the broad and deep engagement of an entire academic department?	119
Conclusion	121
CHAPTER 5: Designing and Implementing Cocurricular Service-Learning	122
5.1 What is cocurricular service-learning?	122
5.2 What is the relationship between service-learning and student development?	125

5.3	What are the different forms of cocurricular service-learning?	129
5.4	How can service-learning be incorporated into the various areas of student life?	139
5.5	What is the relationship between service-learning and leadership education?	142
5.6	What are the steps in developing cocurricular service-learning experiences?	143
5.7	How can assessment of student learning be done in cocurricular service-learning?	148
5.8	How can service-learning educators support student-initiated and -led service-learning?	150
	Conclusion	153
CHAPTER 6: Assessment of Service-Learning		154
6.1	What does service-learning assessment entail?	154
6.2	What are the possible methods for assessing service-learning?	158
6.3	What issues should we consider in choosing assessment methods?	162
6.4	What should assessment of service-learning student participants comprise?	164
6.5	How should service-learning be assessed from the community perspective?	166
6.6	How should service-learning partnerships be assessed?	170
6.7	What should faculty assessment consist of in regard to service-learning?	171
6.8	What assessment should be done at the institutional level?	174
6.9	What are the challenges of service-learning assessment? How can we address them?	179
	Conclusion	182
CHAPTER 7: Administration of Service-Learning		183
7.1	How do we start with service-learning?	184
7.2	What are the components of a center for service-learning?	191
7.3	What staffing is required for a service-learning center?	192
7.4	Where should service-learning be organizationally located?	193
7.5	Besides a service-learning center, what other elements of institutional infrastructure are necessary to support service-learning?	196
7.6	How should the service-learning center be funded?	199
7.7	How can we demonstrate the value of service-learning?	205
7.8	What are the logistical considerations that service-learning requires?	207
7.9	What liability and risk-management issues do we need to address?	212
7.10	What administrative issues are involved in international service-learning?	216
7.11	How should we recognize outstanding work in service-learning?	220
	Conclusion	223

CHAPTER 8: Facing the Complexities and Dilemmas of Service-Learning	225
8.1 How can service-learning be accessible and appropriate for all students?	225
8.2 Should service-learning be required for graduation?	229
8.3 How should we deal with resistant students?	230
8.4 How can participation in service-learning enhance students' understanding and appreciation of differences in race, ethnicity, and socioeconomic status? Of power and privilege? Of systemic oppression?	232
8.5 What is critical service-learning? Why does it matter?	235
8.6 What is the relationship of service-learning to politics?	239
8.7 Should service-learning be institutionalized?	242
8.8 Can campus-community partnerships really be reciprocal relationships among equals?	245
8.9 Should the focus of service-learning be local or global?	247
Conclusion	252
CHAPTER 9: Securing the Future of Service-Learning in Higher Education	253
9.1 What assessment and research are needed to validate service-learning as a pedagogy and practice?	253
9.2 How can institutionalizing service-learning secure its future?	260
9.3 What can we do to more fully recognize service-learning, community-based research, and engaged scholarship in the faculty reward system?	262
9.4 What can we learn from international models of service-learning?	265
9.5 What are the service-learning partnerships of the future?	267
9.6 How can we help students develop a global perspective through local service-learning?	272
9.7 What is the role of service-learning in responding to domestic and international humanitarian crises?	274
9.8 What is the future of service-learning in the online environment?	277
9.9 How can service-learning strengthen higher education's engagement in K–12 schools?	278
9.10 What is the relationship of the future of service-learning to social entrepreneurship?	281
Conclusion	284
References	288
Index	305