

Contents

1	The Reach of Free Movement and the Gradualist Approach of the CJEU: An Introduction . . . . .	1
	Mads Andenas
Part I The Reach of Free Movement
2	The Reach of Free Movement. A Defence of Court Discretion . . . .	17
	Tarjei Bekkedal
3	Free Movement of Persons Through the Lenses of ‘Discrimination’ and ‘Restriction’ . . . . .	57
	Alina Tryfonidou
4	Restrictions on the Use of Goods and Services . . . . .	85
	Stefan Enchelmaier
5	To Use or Not to Use—That’s the Question. On Article 34 and National Rules Restricting the Use of Lawfully Marketed Products . . . . .	109
	Niels Fenger
Part II Justifications and Proportionality
6	Justifications for Restrictions to Free Movement: Towards a Single Normative Framework? . . . . .	131
	Vassilis Hatzopoulos
7	The Justification and Proportionality of Certain Administrative, Regulatory and Political Concerns . . . . .	157
	Pål Wennerås

8	The Guardianship of European Constitutionality: A Structural Critique of European Constitutional Review . . . . .	173
	Agustín José Menéndez
9	The Criterion of “Consistent and Systematic Manner” in Free Movement Law . . . . .	205
	Tor-Inge Harbo
Part III Fundamental Rights
10	Legitimacy and the Charter of Fundamental Rights Post-Lisbon . . . . .	229
	Christoffer C. Eriksen and Jørgen A. Stubberud
11	False Friends and True Cognates: On Fundamental Freedoms, Fundamental Rights and Union Citizenship . . . . .	253
	Francesco De Cecco
12	Fundamental Freedoms, Fundamental Rights, and the Many Faces of Freedom of Contract in the EU . . . . .	273
	Olha O. Cherednychenko
13	The Charter of Fundamental Rights and the Reach of Free Movement Law . . . . .	293
	Filippo Fontanelli and Amedeo Arena
Part IV Looking Abroad
14	Creating a National Market in the United States Through the Dormant Commerce Clause? . . . . .	315
	Eszter Belteki
15	Beyond Parallel Powers. EU Treaty-Making Power Post-Lisbon . . . . .	367
	Mads Andenas and Luca Pantaleo
	Table of Cases . . . . .	399