

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface xvii
Acknowledgments. xxi

Chapter One

General Description of Mediation in the ADR Context. . . 1
1.1 Overview of the Processes 2
1.2 Important Differences between Mediation and Arbitration 4
1.3 Relative Advantages and Disadvantages of Mediation, Arbitration, and Court Adjudication 5
 1.3.1 Relative Advantages of the Processes 5
 1.3.2 Relative Disadvantages of the Processes. 6
1.4 Mandatory versus Voluntary Mediation and Arbitration 9
1.5 Initiating the Processes 10
 1.5.1 Choosing between Mediation and Arbitration . . . 11
 1.5.2 Persuading Opposing Counsel to Participate. . . . 12
 1.5.3 Selecting the Appropriate Type of Neutral Services 13

Chapter Two

Preliminary Premediation Considerations 15
2.1 Stages of the Mediation Process 15
2.2 Facilitative versus Evaluative Mediation 18
2.3 Process Differences Depending on the Area of Substantive Law, the Nature of the Parties, and the Type of Dispute. 23
2.4 Primary and Secondary Reasons for Using Mediation . . 25
 2.4.1 Resolve Part, If Not All, of the Case 25
 2.4.2 Narrow or Focus Issues in the Case. 26
 2.4.3 Test a Theory of Claim or Defense 26
 2.4.4 Evaluate Your Case As You Move through Discovery 27
 2.4.5 See How the Opposing Party Would Impress a Jury as a Witness 27

2.4.6	Get an Independent Assessment of Your Own Client as a Convincing Witness	28
2.4.7	Obtain Early Discovery in a Small Case So That It Settles Early.	28
2.4.8	Work Out a Procedural Schedule in a Complex Case	29
2.4.9	Resolve Discovery Disputes	29
2.4.10	Use a Mediator as the Communicator of a Creative Proposal	30
2.4.11	Use a Mediator to Disclose Favorable “Bombshell” Information	30
2.4.12	Use a Mediator to Filter and Diffuse Harmful Information	31
2.4.13	Determine Possible Trade-offs in a Multiparty Case.	32
2.4.14	Determine Who the Parties in Interest Are in a Multiparty Case.	32
2.4.15	Use a Mediator to Reach a Bracket for High-Low Arbitration	33
2.5	Selecting Cases for Mediation	33
2.5.1	When Should Mediation Be Considered for a Particular Dispute?	33
2.5.2	Favorable Situational Indications for Mediation.	34
2.5.3	Unfavorable Situational Indications for Mediation.	35
2.5.4	Invalid Reasons for Not Using Mediation	37
2.6	Indicator Guide for Selecting Cases for Mediation	38
2.6.1	Favorable Indicators.	38
2.6.2	Unfavorable Indicators	39
2.7	Choosing the Appropriate Mediator	39
2.8	Drafting/Reviewing the Mediation Agreement; Reviewing Applicable Mediation Rules and Statutes.	41
2.9	Designing the ADR Process in Complex Cases	42

Chapter Three

	Preparing the Case for Mediation	49
3.1	Reviewing the Case File	50
3.2	Ensuring You Have All Pertinent Information	52
3.3	Considering Any Time Constraints	53
3.4	Identifying the Parties’ Underlying Needs and Interests	54
3.4.1	The Adjudication Game	54

3.4.2	The Mediation Game	55
3.4.3	Techniques for Identifying Needs and Interests . .	56
3.4.4	Applying the Techniques—an Example.	58
3.5	Determining the Overall Goal, Plan, and Theme for Your Case.	62
3.5.1	Selecting a Goal.	62
3.5.2	Designing a Plan.	63
3.5.3	Developing a Theme.. . . .	64
3.6	Selecting Documents for Presentation to the Mediator. .	65
3.7	Deciding the Format of the Presentation	66
3.8	Determining What Information Should Be Kept Confidential.	68
3.9	Determining Whether a Premediation Meeting or Caucus Would Be Helpful	69
3.10	Knowing the Status of the Litigation and Negotiations .	71
3.11	Knowing the Limits of Settlement Authority	72
3.12	Determining a Reasonable Settlement Range, Opening Positions, and Bottom Lines	73
3.13	Considering the Potential for Creative Solutions.	79
3.14	Determining Your Negotiation Strategy and Related Tactics	83
3.14.1	Competitive Tactics	85
3.14.2	Cooperative Tactics	86
3.14.3	Avoidance Tactics	87
3.15	Deciding Who Should Attend the Mediation Session . . .	87

Chapter Four

	Preparing the Client for Mediation.	91
4.1	Advising the Client about the Nature of the Mediation Process	91
4.2	Advising the Client about the Role of the Mediator . . .	92
4.3	Advising the Client about the Role of the Advocate . . .	94
4.4	Advising the Client about the Role of the Client	95
4.4.1	Delineating the Extent of the Client's Verbal Participation	95
4.4.2	Advising the Client on Participation Ground Rules—General	96
4.4.3	The Client Should Face the Mediator When Speaking	97
4.4.4	The Client Should Speak to Be Understood	98
4.4.5	The Client Should State Only Facts	98
4.4.6	The Client Should Never Argue.	99

4.4.7	The Client Should Display No Reaction to Settlement Offers	99
4.4.8	The Client Should Behave As If before a Jury	100
4.4.9	The Client Should Neither Answer Nor Ask Difficult Questions	100
4.4.10	The Client Should Listen Carefully to the Statements of the Opposing Party and Should Not Interrupt.	101
4.5	Review of the Case, Settlement Goals, Strategies, and Tactics	103
4.6	Advising the Client on Miscellaneous Matters	104
4.7	Barriers to Effective Advocacy in Mediation.	106
4.8	The Perception Barrier	111
4.9	The Mental Set Barrier	117
4.10	Techniques for Neutralizing the Barriers to Effective Mediation Advocacy	120

Chapter Five

	Effective Advocacy in the Mediation Session	127
5.1	Preparing the Premediation Submission.	127
5.2	The Opening Statement in Mediation	129
5.2.1	Using the Client to Tell the Story	131
5.2.2	Using Documents.	132
5.2.3	Using Audiovisual Aids	132
5.3	Applied Negotiation Tactics—Knowing What to Do and When to Do It.	133
5.3.1	The Five Principal Conflict Behaviors.	134
5.3.2	Criteria for Choosing a Specific Behavior in Mediation	135
5.4	Deriving the Most Tactical Advantage from Caucuses	140
5.4.1	Identifying and Dealing with the Mediator's Strategies and Tactics	140
5.4.2	How to Use the Mediator and the Caucusing Process for the Best Results	142
5.5	Persuasion through Effective Communication.	149
5.5.1	Persuasion in General	150
5.5.2	Persuasion through Effective Speaking	159
5.5.3	Persuasion through Effective Use of Body Language.	166
5.5.4	Persuasion through Effective Listening.	168
5.5.5	Persuasion through Effective Processing of Sensed Body Language	170

5.5.6	Persuasion through application of social psychology—the power of social influence	171
5.6	Applying Creative Problem-Solving Techniques.	176
5.6.1	Designing the Problem, the Process, and the Solution	176
5.6.2	Applying Lateral Thinking Techniques to Achieve Optimal Solutions in Mediation	178
5.7	Structured Settlements and Decision Tree Analysis	182
5.7.1	Structured Settlements	182
5.7.2	Decision Tree Analysis	184
5.8	Assisting the Mediator to Achieve Closure	190
5.9	Ethical Considerations	193
5.9.1	Standards of Ethical Conduct for Mediators	194
5.9.2	Standards of Ethical Conduct for Lawyers in Negotiation	196
5.9.3	Civility Guidelines	198

Chapter Six

	Postmediation Advocacy	201
6.1	Continuing the Negotiations	201
6.2	Drafting the Settlement Agreement	203
6.3	Enforcing the Settlement Agreement	205

Chapter Seven

	Description of the Hybrid Processes	207
7.1	High-Low Arbitration.	207
7.2	Baseball Arbitration	208
7.3	Fact-finding	209
7.4	Co-mediation	210
7.5	Summary Jury Trial	211
7.6	Mini-trial	213
7.7	Simulated Juries	215
7.8	Special Masters	216
7.9	Early Neutral Evaluation.	217
7.10	Expert Panels	218
7.11	Co-med-arb	220
7.12	Arb-med	221
7.13	Binding Mediation	222
7.14	Hybrid ADR Process Selection Chart	223

Chapter Eight

Effective Advocacy in Cybermediation	231
8.1 Basic Definitions	233
8.1.1 Cyberspace	234
8.1.2 Electronic Dispute Resolution (EDR)	237
8.1.3 Videoconferencing	237
8.1.4 Telephonic Dispute Resolution (TDR)	238
8.1.5 EDR Information Acquisition and Delivery Technology	238
8.1.6 Online Dispute Resolution (ODR)	239
8.1.7 Cyberarbitration	240
8.1.8 Cybermediation	240
8.1.9 Cybernegotiation	240
8.1.10 Internet Regulatory Organizations and Related Terms	241
8.2 Types of Alternative ODR Services—General	242
8.2.1 Examples of Primary ODR Services	243
8.2.2 Examples of Secondary ODR Services	246
8.3 Comparison of Face-to-face Telephone, and Written Communication in Mediation.	247
8.3.1 Mediating Face to Face.	248
8.3.2 Mediating by Telephone	249
8.3.3 Mediating in Writing	251
8.4 Benefits and Limitations of Cybermediation	255
8.4.1 Benefits and Limitations—Generally	256
8.4.2 Confidentiality	259
8.4.3 Cost or Financing of Service	260
8.5 Ethics of Cyberadvocacy	261
8.6 Considerations in Selecting a Cybermediation Service and Cybermediator	263
8.6.1 The Cybermediation Process	263
8.6.2 Selecting a Cybermediation Service	264
8.6.3 Selecting a Cybermediator	275
8.6.4 Scenario for Cybermediation “Walk Through”	275
8.7 Preparing the Case for Cybermediation	283
8.7.1 Selecting Case-specific Documents and Gathering Relevant Internet Information.	283
8.7.2 Deciding the Format of the Presentation	292
8.7.3 Determining What Information Should Be Kept Confidential.	294
8.7.4 Determining Whether a Premediation Caucus Would Be Helpful.	295

8.7.5	Determining Your Negotiation Strategy and Related Tactics	296
8.7.6	Deciding Who Should Be Online or Available During the Cybermediation Session	297
8.8	Preparing the Client for Cybermediation	299
8.8.1	Advising the Client About the Nature of the Cybermediation Process	299
8.8.2	Advising the Client About the Role of the Cybermediator	300
8.8.3	Advising the Client About the Role of the Cyberadvocate	301
8.8.4	Advising the Client About the Role of the Client	301
8.8.5	Reviewing the Case, Settlement Goals, Strategies, and Tactics with the Client.	303
8.9	Effective Advocacy in the Cybermediation Sessions.	303
8.9.1	Cybermediation Protocols	303
8.9.2	Cyberspace Netiquette	307
8.9.3	Preparing the Premediation Submission	312
8.9.4	The Opening Statement in Cybermediation.	313
8.9.5	Applied Negotiation Tactics—Knowing What to Do and When to Do It	313
8.9.6	Deriving the Most Tactical Advantage from Caucuses	315
8.9.7	Persuasion through Effective Communication	316
8.9.8	Applying Creative Problem Solving Techniques	318
8.9.9	Assisting the Mediator to Achieve Closure	319
8.10	Post-cybermediation Advocacy	321
8.10.1	Continuing the Negotiations	321
8.10.2	Drafting the Settlement Agreement	322
8.10.3	Considering Other Online or Offline ADR Processes	322
8.10.4	Enforcing the Settlement Agreement	322
	Epilogue	323

Appendices

A.	Mediator Selection Checklist	327
B.	Mediation Preparation Checklist.	331
B-1	Mediation Preparation Form; Own Client	341
B-2	Mediation Preparation Form; Other Party	343
C.	Client Preparation Checklist	345
D.	Mediation Session Checklist	353

E.	Postmediation Advocacy Checklist	365
F.	Sample Mediation Clauses	369
G.	Sample Premediation Agreement	375
H.	Commercial Mediation Rules	381
I.	Model Standards of Conduct for Mediators	391
J.	Selected ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct	403
K.	Organizations Offering ADR Services	407
L.	Online Dispute Resolution Organizations	415
M.	Uniform Mediation Act	421