

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction
Victoria E. Bonnell and Lynn Hunt	1
PART 1. CULTURE AS CONCEPT AND PRACTICE
1. The Concept(s) of Culture
William H. Sewell, Jr.	35
2. Method and Metaphor after the New Cultural History
Richard Biernacki	62
PART 2. KNOWLEDGE IN THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
3. Science Studies after Social Construction: The Turn toward the Comparative and the Global
Margaret C. Jacob	95
4. The Privatization of Citizenship: How to Unthink a Knowledge Culture
Margaret R. Somers	121
PART 3. NARRATIVE, DISCOURSE, AND PROBLEMS OF REPRESENTATION
5. Cultural History and the Challenge of Narrativity
Karen Halttunen	165
6. Colonizers, Scholars, and the Creation of Invisible Histories
Steven Feierman	182

7. Cultural Analysis and Moral Discourses: Episodes, Continuities, and Transformations Sonya O. Rose	217
PART 4. RECONSTRUCTING THE CATEGORIES OF BODY AND SELF
8. Why All the Fuss about the Body? A Medievalist's Perspective Caroline Bynum	241
9. Problematizing the Self Jerrold Seigel	281
Afterword Hayden White	315
Notes on Contributors	325
Index	329