

Contents

Acknowledgements	7	VI. Non-Megalithic Long Barrows	76
I. Introduction	9	1. Introduction	76
1. The course of the excavation	9	2. Enclosures and mounds	76
2. Barkær in archaeological literature .	10	3. The revetment of the mounds.....	78
II. Location and Environment	13	4. Spreads of stones outside the mounds	79
III. The Excavation	17	5. Burial structures: 1. closed graves ..	79
1. The mounds	17	6. Burial structures: 2. open chambers	83
2. The revetments along the sides of the mounds	20	7. Burial structures: 3. stone/wood hy- brids.....	84
3. Grave 1, the dolmenic cist.....	22	8. Relationship between megaliths and wooden graves	85
4. Grave 2	23	9. Terminal structures	85
5. Graves 3 and 4.....	25	10. Burnt monuments	87
6. End structures	26	11. Conclusions.....	87
7. The stone spreads outside the mounds	26	VII. Early Neolithic Relative Chronology	89
8. The two-post structure	27	1. The Oxie or A-group	89
9. East ends of the mounds in earlier phases	28	2. The Volling group	89
10. West end of the mounds	28	3. The Fuchsberg group	91
11. Summary of 1-10.....	28	4. Zealand, Langeland and Scania	92
12. Funnel-Beaker settlement	29	5. Chronology of grave forms	94
IV. Artifact Material	31	6. Summary.....	96
1. Grave goods and ritual deposits....	31	VIII. Copper Composition Analysis	97
2. The settlement finds	37	IX. Radiometric Dating	102
V. Finds from Other Periods	64	1. Datings from Barkær	102
1. The Maglemose settlement	64	2. Calibrated chronology of the Funnel Beaker Culture in Denmark	102
2. Other Mesolithic Finds.....	67	3. Consequences of the new chronology	107
3. Bronze and Early Iron Age settle- ments.....	67	Dansk resumé	111
4. Graves from Roman Iron Age	69	References	119
5. Miscellaneous.....	74	Plates I-IV	000