PREFACE 10

CHAPTER ONE:
BEYOND THE SENTENCE: TEXT AND DISCOURSE

1.1 BEYOND THE SENTENCE 13
Two complementary types of text analysis 14
The scope of analysis 14
Role of syntactic processes 15
Three components projected into sentence-as-a-part-of-the-text 16
Hierarchical and relational aspects of the structure of text 17
Language in context and language as context 17
Visual support in text processing 18
1.2 TEXT AND DISCOURSE 19
1.3 WHAT IS TEXT? 21
Some definitions of text 22
Halliday's multidimensional approach to text 22
Text as a semantic concept 23
How text is organised 23
1.4 TEXT TYPES AND TEXT STRATEGIES 24
1.4.1 Text types 24
Definition of a text type 25
Identifying text types 25
1.4.2 Text strategies (perspectivization in text) 26
Decision-making strategies in narrative texts 26
1.5 STANDARDS OF TEXTUALITY 29
1.5.1 COHESION 29
Cohesive links (ties) 30
a. Reference and its types 31
The scope of reference 33
b. Grammatical cohesion 35
Morphological categories: tense 35
Verbal voice 36
Verbal mood 37
Definiteness 37
Recurrence with a shift in Parts of Speech 39
Syntax: multiple recurrence of a sentence pattern 39

Recursiveness....40
Junction....42
Punctuation marks....43
c. Lexical cohesion....44
Lexical replacement....44
Repetition of lexical items....46
Lexical relationship: semantic contiguity....47
d. Lexico-grammatical cohesion....49
Negation....49
Modality....50
1.5.1.1 Implicit signals of cohesion....50
Implicit versus incomplete....51
Concluding remarks....55
1.5.2 COHERENCE....55
Bridging assumption (inference)....60
1.5.2.1 Coherence and text colonies....62
Arbitrary and non-arbitrary sequences....65
Influence of mainstream text on interpreting colonies....65
1.5.3 INTENTIONALITY AND ACCEPTABILITY....66
1.5.4 SITUATIONALITY....68
1.5.5 INTERTEXTUALITY AND ALLUSION....69
Pre-text and active text....70
1.5.6 INFORMATIVITY....71
Negotiating informativity....73
1.5.7 SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING....74

INTRODUCTION TO CHAPTERS TWO AND THREE....76
Parameters influencing our choice....77
Three principles influencing our choice....77
Grounding....79

CHAPTER TWO:
PACKAGING INFORMATION IN TEXT - CONSTRUCTIONS FOR HIGHLIGHTING

2.0 CLASSIFYING CRITERIA....82
Degree of explicitness....82
Recoverability....83
Contrastiveness....84
2.1 CLEFT-CONSTRUCTION....85
Element-focussed and clause-focussed clefts....88

2.2 PSEUDO-CLEFT CONSTRUCTIONS 90
2.2.1 Pseudo-clefts proper 90
2.2.2 Inverted pseudo-clefts 91
2.2.3 Other constructions 92
2.3 THERE- CONSTRUCTIONS 93
Existential and presentative THERE 96
Definiteness in existential THERE 98
Hearer-old entities treated as hearer-new 98
Hearer-new tokens of hearer-old types 99
Hearer-old entities newly instantiating a variable 99
Hearer-new entities with individuating description 99
False "definites" 99
Definiteness in presentational THERE 100
2.4 FRONTING, INVERSION, LEFT- AND RIGHT-DISLOCATION 101
2.4.1 FRONTING 101
Focus pre-posing and topicalization 102
2.4.2 INVERSION 105
2.4.3 LEFT- AND RIGHT-DISLOCATION 106
2.4.3.1 Left dislocation 106
2.4.3.2 Right dislocation 107
2.5 ETRAPOSITION (END-FOCUS) 108
2.6 PRE-POSING AND POST-POSING (a survey) 110
2.7 CLASSIFYING CRITERIA (an overview) 111
2.8 A BRIEF COMPARISON WITH CZECH 112
2.9 SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING 115

CHAPTER THREE:
COMMUNICATIVE VALUE OF DEVIANT (IRREGULAR) STRUCTURES

3.1 REGULARITY, IRREGULARITY AND DEVIATION 116
Defining deviation 116
Deviation and highlighting 117
Deviation based on quantity 117
Macro-textual perspective 117
Deviation as a scale (continuum) 117
3.2 TYPES OF DEVIATION 118
3.3 DATA 121
3.4 ILLUSTRATIVE EXAMPLES 121
Deviation based on structure frame stereotypes 121
Deviation through referential distance 123
Deviation through ramification 124

3.5 CONCLUSION 127
3.6 SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING 127

CHAPTER FOUR:
EVALUATIVE PREDICATIONS AND EVALUATIVE CONSTRUCTIONS

4.0 INTRODUCTION 129
4.1 EVALUATIVE PREDICATIONS 130
4.1.1 Explicit vs. implicit evaluation 131
4.1.2 Types of explicit evaluation 132
4.1.2.1 Extrapropositional evaluation 132
4.1.2.2 Intrapropositional evaluation 133
4.1.3 Text perspective 136
4.1.4 Structural patterns 137
4.1.5 Communicative sentence types 138
4.1.6 The role of pragmatics 139
4.1.6.1 Evaluation in compliments 140
4.2 EVALUATIVE CONSTRUCTIONS 142
4.2.1 Tautologies 142
4.2.1.1 Formal characteristics of tautologies 142
4.2.1.2 Functional characteristics of tautologies 144
Three basic functions of tautologies 144
4.2.2 Miscellaneous cases 146
4.3 A BRIEF COMPARISON WITH CZECH 147
4.4 SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING 148

CONCLUSION 149
