

CONTENTS

Preface	v
Abbreviations and Conventions	ix
Introduction: A History of Two Dissertations	xi
A Note on the Text	cxxxiii

A DISSERTATION ON THE PASSIONS

Section 1	3
Section 2	7
Section 3	18
Section 4	21
Section 5	24
Section 6	26

THE NATURAL HISTORY OF RELIGION

Introduction	33
Section 1. That Polytheism Was the Primary Religion of Men	34
Section 2. Origin of Polytheism	37
Section 3. The Same Subject Continued	40
Section 4. Deities Not Considered as Creators or Formers of the World	44
Section 5. Various Forms of Polytheism: Allegory, Hero-Worship	49
Section 6. Origin of Theism from Polytheism	52
Section 7. Confirmation of this Doctrine	56
Section 8. Flux and Reflux of Polytheism and Theism	58
Section 9. Comparison of these Religions, with regard to Persecution and Toleration	60
Section 10. With regard to Courage or Abasement	63
Section 11. With regard to Reason or Absurdity	65
Section 12. With regard to Doubt or Conviction	67

Section 13. Impious Conceptions of the Divine Nature in Popular Religions of Both Kinds	77
Section 14. Bad Influence of Popular Religions on Morality	81
Section 15. General Corollary	85
<hr style="width: 10%; margin: 10px auto;"/>
Editor's Annotations	88
Editorial Appendix: Emendations and Substantive Variants	172
The Intellectual Background: A Concise Account, with Bibliography	205
Biographical Appendix	229
Reference List	241
Catalogue of Hume's References	264
Hume's Index	271
Editor's Index	279