

Obsah

Introductory Notes	9
Theatre and City	13
Local Administration in Olomouc and the City Theatre	13
Theatre Agreements between Managers and the City	21
Separation of Duties between the City and the Theatre Manager	23
Fire Safety Measures	27
Theatre Season	29
Theatre Orchestra	32
The City's Supervision of the Repertoire and Theatre Staffing	36
Subscriptions and Admission Rates	38
Olomouc Opera between 1770 and 1830	49
The Opening of the Theatre on the Lower Square	49
Olomouc Citizens and Their Theatre	52
Bannholzer, Heir to the Olomouc Theatre Tradition	56
New Theatre on the Upper Square	59
Leopold Hoch 1830–1834	60
Difficult Beginnings	60
Karl Burghauser 1834/1836–1847	61
Experienced Practitioner in Theatre	61
First Heyday of the Olomouc Opera	64
Friedrich Blum 1847–1859	67
Maker, Fighter, and Loser	67
Theatrical Empire	71
The Theatre as a Court Institution	72
Beginning of the End	84
Carl Haag 1859–1862	89
A Debacle in the City Management	89
The Maximum out of the Minimum	91
Carl König 1862–1868	96
Actor Turned Manager, Manager Turned Swindler	96
Violation of Contractual Terms: Who Is to Blame?	98
Wagner Times	100
The Fall of König and Overall Evaluation	105

Ignatz Czernits 1868–1872	108
Austrian Theatres around 1870 and the Insight of Czernits	108
Negotiations with the City, the Crisis of the 1869–1870 Season	111
Opera Battles Mediocrity	114
Julius Schwabe 1872–1874	118
Curious Theatre Audition	118
Seasons under Criticism	121
Carl Joseph von Bertalan 1874–1878	123
An Excellent Clerk in the Theatre	123
Tender Proceedings and the Cautious Attitude of the City	126
Opera According to the Kapellmeister: Victorious Wagner and Uninteresting Meyerbeer	127
Julius Fritzsche 1878–1880	133
Aida in Olomouc for the First Time Ever – the Path to a Financial Crisis ..	133
The Peak of the Financial Crisis – Departure from Olomouc	137
Emanuel Raul 1880–1883	138
Wasted Potential of the Ensemble	138
Frugality at the Expense of Quality	141
Gustav Mahler in the Misery of the Olomouc Theatre	143
Emil Schönerstädt 1883–1884	148
Scandalous Opera with New Scenery	148
Robert Müller 1884–1887	152
Attempts to Close the Opera	152
Emanuel Westen 1887–1888	157
Still Unprofitable	157
Carl Stick 1888–1890	159
Manager of Theatre Scum	159
Carl Berghof 1890–1896	164
The Rise to Standard Operations	164
Remaining in Olomouc in Exchange for Lower Subsidies	168
The Bartered Bride in the Municipal Theatre for the First Time	171
Berghof Adored and Damned	172
Stanislaus Lesser 1896–1904	174
Seeking the Favour of the Local Audience	174
The Only Performance of Smetana's Dalibor	177
Another Non-Refundable Investment and the Adamant Municipal Council	180
The Tragic Ending to Lesser's Career in Olomouc	185

Carl Rübsam, Leopold Schmid 1904–1908	188
Investing in Costly Performance Rights	188
Report on Deficiencies in the Management of the Municipal Theatre	193
Leopold Schmid 1908–1917	198
In the Name of Wagner	199
Competition from Cinema and Modern Music and Related Concerns	203
Discontinuation of Opera Production during the War	206
Dr. Robert Schlismann-Brandt 1917–1920	207
Assistance from the Brno Ensemble	207
Criticism of the Theatre Management	209
“Nouveaux riches” in the Olomouc Audience	211
Takeover of the Olomouc German Theatre by Czech Management	213
Czechs Returning to the German Theatre	213
Epilogue	216
German Seasons in the Czech Theatre: 1920–1922	218
The Opera Repertoire and Its Critical Reflection at the Time	221
From Singspiel to Opera	221
Before the Opening of the Theatre on the Upper Square	224
Triumphant Victory of Italian Opera and French Grand Opéra	226
Introduction of “Modern” Repertoire	231
The Public and Its Opinion on Olomouc Opera	233
German Opera	236
Older German Opera	236
Acclaimed Wagner	244
Second-Rate Operas	248
Search for New National Opera	251
French Opera	255
Faust	255
“Inanimate Antiquities” and “musikalischer Schmarrn”	256
Operas by the Greats of Grand Opéra	258
Famous Operas of the Late 19th Century	263
Italian Opera	265
Donizetti, Bellini, Rossini	265
Verdi	271
Modern Italian Opera	274
Czech and Slovak Opera	276

Opera Staging Practice in the Olomouc Theatre	281
From Panoptical Scenes to Grand Opera Effects	281
Imperfect Means of the Universal Provincial Stage	290
Singers of the Municipal Theatre in Olomouc	297
Fluctuation of Members	297
Young Talents and Fading Stars	298
Specialised or Versatile Singing Skills?	299
Remuneration of the Singers	302
Blame It on the Manager	307
Singers under the Scrutiny of the Audience	308
Audience of the Municipal Theatre in Olomouc	313
Noblemen and Townsmen around 1800	313
Emergence of Municipal Audience	314
The “Voice of the People” Selects the Repertoire	316
Confident Townsmen and Their Theatre	318
Gallery Seats	319
Clerks in the Theatre	320
“Mandatory” Visit to the Theatre	321
Manipulation of the Audience	323
Zusammenfassung	327
Abbreviations	337
Bibliography and Sources	339
Lexicons	350
Web Sources	351
Archival Sources, Almanacs, Periodicals	354
Index	359