

Contents

Introduction	1
I. GLOBALISATION IN THEORY &amp; PRACTICE
Thomas Docherty The Place's Fault	13
José Lanthers "Cobwebs on Your Walls": The State of the Debate about Globalisation &amp; Irish Drama	33
Jason King Black Saint Patrick: Irish Interculturalism in Theoretical Perspective &amp; Theatre Practice	45
II. POSTMODERNITY, EXILE &amp; HOME
Rajeev S. Patke Paul Muldoon's "Incantata": The "Post-" in "Postmodern"	61
Gerold Sedlmayr Between Copacabana and Annaghmakerrig: Paul Durcan's Global Perspective	74
Kinga Olszewska Preliminary Notes on the Issue of Exile: Poland &amp; Ireland	86
Honor O'Connor "While Stocks Last": The Poetry of Dennis O'Driscoll &amp; Contemporary Ireland	98

III. PLACE, GENDER & THE BODY

Monica Facchinello

*Sceptical Representations of Home: John Banville's
Doctor Copernicus & Kepler* 109

Harvey O'Brien

Local Man, Global Man: Masculinity in Transformation in the Horror/Fantasy of Neil Jordan 122

Susan Cahill

Doubles & Dislocations: The Body & Place in Anne Enright's What Are You Like? 133

IV. CANONICAL WRITERS & INTERCULTURAL LINKS

Richard Kearney

Epiphanies in Joyce 147

Karl Chircop

*Eveline & Mommina by the Window at Twilight:
On the Window Motif in James Joyce's "Eveline" &
Luigi Pirandello's "Leonora Addio!"* 183

Máirín Nic Eoin

"Kafkachas": Kafka & Irish-language Literature 197

Jeremy Parrott

From Samsa to Sam: The Metamorphoses of Beckett's Ms 210

Emilie Morin

"But to Hell with All This Fucking Scenery": Ireland in Translation in Samuel Beckett's Molloy and Malone Meurt/ Malone Dies 222

Notes on Contributors 235

Index 238