

Contents

List of illustrations	ix
List of contributors	xi
Foreword	xv
Acknowledgements	xvii
Introduction: social media, politics and democracy in post-transition Central and Eastern Europe PAWEŁ SUROWIEC AND VÁCLAV ŠTĚTKA	1
PART I
Political parties, actors and social media	21
1 Who is afraid of the platforms? Adoption of and strategies for use of social media by politicians in the Czech Republic ALENA MACKOVÁ, VÁCLAV ŠTĚTKA, JAN ZÁPOTOCKÝ AND RADIM HLADÍK	23
2 The 2014 presidential elections campaign in Romania: connecting with civic-ness on Facebook MONICA PĂTRUȚ	45
3 Towards self-mediatization of politics: parliamentarians' use of Facebook and Twitter in Croatia and Hungary NORBERT MERKOVITY	64
4 Personalization of political communication in social media: the 2014 Slovenian national election campaign TOMAŽ DEŽELAN, ALEM MAKSUTI AND JERNEJ PRODNIK	81
5 Professionalization and intentional disengagement: Facebook campaigning in the Bulgarian local elections in 2015 OGNYAN SEIZOV	101

PART II

Social movements, interest and professional groups and social media	121
6 We have been to Bolotnaya: Russian protests, the online public sphere and the discourse of division ALINA RYABOVOLOVA	123
7 The networked public sphere and Ukrainian journalists DMYTRO HUBENKO AND MELISSA WALL	142
8 Branding Poland online: propagating and resisting nation branding on Facebook PAWEŁ SUROWIEC AND MAGDALENA KANIA-LUNDHOLM	160
9 The dilemmas of social media-enabled civic activism: the case of sexual minorities in Lithuania GALINA MIAZHEVICH	182
Conclusions VÁCLAV ŠTĚTKA AND PAWEŁ SUROWIEC	198
Index	205

