CONTENTS

Acknowledgments xi

PART I: INTRODUCTION 1

1 A new approach to classroom-based language assessments 2

Where does our approach come from? 3

Why did we write this book? 4

Who is this book for? 5

What is in this book? 6

What will you learn from this book? 7

References 7

2 Using classroom-based language assessments 8

Language teaching and classroom-based language assessment 8

Language teaching 8

Language assessment 9

Similarities and differences between language teaching and language assessment 10

Decisions made on the basis of classroom-based assessments 10

Decisions you need to make in the classroom 11

Relative importance of decisions 13

Modes of classroom-based assessments 15

Continuous and cyclical 17

Using classroom-based language assessments 18

Links in using classroom-based language assessments 19

Test developers and test users 24

Practicality of assessment use 25

Resources for assessment use 25

PART II: A SYSTEMATIC APPROACH TO CLASSROOM-BASED ASSESSMENT 27

3 Overview of our approach to assessment development 28

Fairness and accountability 28

Assessment justification 29

Specifying an assessment use argument (AUA) 30

Assessment development 31

Providing backing to support the AUA 36

4 Consequences: Why do we need to assess our students? 37

Assessment development questions for Claim 1 37

Intended consequences 38

Who will be affected by the consequences? 40

Quality of the intended consequences 41

Summary: Intended consequences and stakeholders in classroom-based assessments 41

Stating Claim 1 42

Providing backing for Claim 1 46

5 Decisions: When do we need to assess our students? 48

Assessment development questions for Claim 2 48

What decisions need to be made? 48

Who will be affected by the intended decisions? 49

Who will make the intended decisions? 49

When do the intended decisions need to be made? 50

The qualities of the intended decisions 50

Summary: Relating intended consequences to decisions in classroom-based assessments 52

Stating Claim 2 52

Providing backing for Claim 2 57

6 Interpretations: What and how should we assess? 59

Assessment development questions for Claim 3 59

What do we need to assess? Intended interpretations 61

Identifying the interpretations we need for making decisions: Relevance and sufficiency 61

Source of ability definitions 62
Defining the areas of language ability to be assessed: Meaningfulness 64
How should we assess? Assessment tasks 65
Generalizability of interpretations 66
Identifying TLU domains and TLU tasks 66
Impartiality of interpretations 66
Qualities of interpretations 67
Relating Claim 3 to Claims 1 and 2 68
Stating Claim 3 68
Providing backing for Claim 3 71

7 Assessment records: How can we record our students' assessment performance? 73
Assessment development questions for Claim 4 74
Assessment records 74
Identifying the types of assessment records we need 75
Quality of the assessment records 75
Stating Claim 4 78
Providing backing for Claim 4 84

PART III: APPLYING THIS APPROACH IN YOUR CLASSROOM 87
8 Developing assessment task templates 88
Using TLU tasks to develop assessment task templates 90
Step 1: Selecting a TLU task 90
Step 2: Describing TLU tasks 91
Step 3: Modifying a TLU task to develop an assessment task template 97
Step 4: Developing a method for recording/scoring students' performance 106
Step 5: Evaluating the modified task/assessment task template in terms of assessment qualities 108