

Contents

Preface	ix
I. Germany and Yugoslavia: The Story, 1991–1992	1
1. Germany and Yugoslavia before the Summer of 1991	3
2. The Crisis Breaks: 23 June–7 July 1991	11
3. Serbia Launches a New Balkan War: July–August 1991	22
4. Birth of the Peace Conference: August–September 1991	37
5. The Death of Yugoslavia: September–October 1991	48
6. Struggling with Serb Obstinacy: October–November 1991	62
7. The Road to Recognition: November–December 1991	73
8. The War Spreads to Bosnia: January–June 1992	88
9. The London Conference: July–August 1992	95
II. Germany and Yugoslavia: The Issues, 1991–1992	101
10. On Values and Interests	103
11. Between Self-Determination and Institutional Legitimacy: On the Dangers and Limits of Political Rhetoric	108
12. Shadows of the Past: Did Germany Re-enact History?	113

13. A New Balkan War: On the Nature and Origins of the Conflicts in Yugoslavia	120
14. States and Frontiers: On the Dialectic of Unity and Diversity in the Yugoslav Realm	128
15. Resisting False Claims: Why Serbia Is Not Yugoslavia (and Never Was)	136
16. Recognition: The Myth of Prematureness	141
17. Recognition: The Legend of Unilateralism	148
III. Conclusions	157
18. Correct Insights and Sound Principles Cannot Cure Behavioral Weaknesses	159
Notes	165
Chronology of Events	185
Glossary	189
Annotated Bibliography	193
Index	201