

Contents

Foreword

Aim of the Workshop

Abstracts:

Ahnert: U.S. National Weather Service Flash Flood Warning Program	5
Angerhöfer: The Weather Warning System of German Weather Service Provider and Special Information for Disaster Control	6
Brezková et al. The Limits of Flash Flood Forecasting in the Conditions of the Czech Republic	8
Bung et al.: Flash Flood Awareness and Prevention in Germany	9
Cremonax: French Vigilance and Cooperation with Civil Security and Hydrological Services.	11
Danhelka: Hydrological Forecasting and Warning in Case of Flash Flood.....	12
Jelonek: Hydrometeorological Extreme Phenomena Monitoring System and Cooperation with Public Administration for Reduction of Flash Flood Consequences (based) on the Example of Middle Odra Basin	13
Machycek: Flash Floods.....	14
Obrusnik: Flash Floods – Are we able to face such kind of disasters?	15
Papez: Suggestions and Measures for Reduction of the Floods Impact	16
Prudil: Warning of Citizens and Rescue during Natural Disasters	17
Roumagnac: Predict System, to Help Decision Making in Flash Floods, Feedback on Floods in Var in 2010	18
Salek et al.: The Use of Weather Radar for Precipitation Estimation and Nowcasting at the Czech Hydrometeorological Institute (CHMI).....	19
Sandev: System of Integrated Warning Service (SIWS) in Czech Hydrometeorological Institute (CHMI)	20
Sercl: The Robust Method for an Estimate of Runoff Caused by Torrential Rainfall and a Proposal of a Warning System (FFG-CZ)	21
Setvak: Deep Convective Clouds and their Monitoring by Operational Weather Satellites	22
Tetzlaff: Probable Maximum Precipitation.....	24
Unucka: Flash Floods – Procedure Concept of Area Risk Assessment.....	26
Wittwer: Flash Floods and the Current French Hydrological Early Warning System: What needs to be developed?	27