

Contents

Acknowledgments	page ix
Introduction	I
PART I: CONTEMPORARY LIBERALISM
1 Contemporary Liberal Exclusionism I: John Rawls's Antiperfectionist Liberalism	9
Rawls's Political Liberalism	10
The Inadequacy of Rawlsian Liberalism	14
2 Contemporary Liberal Exclusionism II: Rawls, Macedo, and "Neutral" Liberal Public Reason	24
Macedo's Rawlsian Public Reason	28
Some Basic Problems With Public Reason	29
Macedo's Critique of Natural Law	31
Slavery and Abortion	33
Public Reason as Argumentative Sleight-of-Hand	37
Public Reason and Religion	41
Conclusion	43
3 Contemporary Liberal Exclusionism III: Gutmann and Thompson on "Reciprocity"	44
The Condition of Reciprocity	44
Why Liberal Reciprocity Is Unreasonable	46
4 Contemporary Liberalism and Autonomy I: Ronald Dworkin on Paternalism	57
Volitional and Critical Interests	58
Paternalism	59

	Additive and Constitutive Views of the Good Life	60
	Critique of Various Forms of Paternalism	62
	A "Paternalist" Response	67
	Conclusion	80
5	Contemporary Liberalism and Autonomy II: Joseph Raz on Trust and Citizenship	82
	Coercion	83
	Trust	84
	Trust and Citizenship	89
	Problems With Raz's Citizenship	91
	Citizenship, Self-Respect, and Mutual Respect	92
	Liberal Tyranny	96
	Conclusion	97
6	"Offensive Liberalism": Macedo and "Liberal" Education	100
	Diversity and Distrust	101
	Distrusting Diversity and Distrust	104
	Conclusion	125
PART II: LIBERALISM AND NATURAL LAW
7	Understanding Liberalism: A Broader Vision	131
	Understandings of Liberalism	131
	A Brief History of Liberalism	134
	Core Principles of Liberalism	144
	Tendencies of Liberalism	146
	Defining Liberalism Too Broadly?	148
8	Understanding Natural Law	152
	A Brief History of Natural Law	152
	Levels of Natural Law	164
	Contemporary Natural Law Debates: The "New Natural Law Theory"	169
	Core Agreement on Natural Law	174
	Classical Natural Law and Liberty	176
9	Liberalism and Natural Law	185
	The Truth Natural Law Sees in Liberalism	185
	What Liberalism Often Fails to See	205
	Reconciling Natural Law and Liberalism: Why Does It Matter?	214
10	"Cashing Out" Natural Law Liberalism: The Case of Religious Liberty	217
	Preliminary Note on "Religion"	217
	Natural Law and Religion	220
	Natural Law, the Common Good, and Religion	226

	Principled vs. Prudential Arguments for a Broad Scope of Religious Liberty	238
II	A Natural Law Public Philosophy	248
	The Foundational Principle: The Dignity of the Human Person	248
	The Origins and End of Government: The Common Good	249
	The Legitimate Scope of Government: Limited Government	249
	Political Authority	250
	Citizenship	251
	Political and Personal Rights of Citizens and Persons	251
	Relationship of the Political Community to Other Communities: Civil Society	251
	The Economic System and the Rights and Duties of Property	252
	Education	253
	Culture and Entertainment	253
	The Shared Understanding of the Community Regarding Its History	254
	Relationship of the Nation to Other Peoples and the World	254
	Relationship of the Polity to the Transcendent Order	255
	Conclusion	256
	Index	259