

CONTENTS

	Foreword by Gerald Prince	ix
	'Translators' Preface	xiii
	Palimpsests
1	Five types of transtextuality, among which hypertextuality	1
2	A few precautions	7
3	Parodia in Aristotle	10
4	Birth of parody?	12
5	Parody as a literary figure	15
6	Development of the vulgate	19
7	General chart of hypertextual practices	24
8	Brief parodies	31
9	Oulipian games	39
10	One word for another	49
11	Niagara: A Novel	53
12	Burlesque travesty	56
13	Modern travesties	66
14	Imitation as a literary figure	73
15	A text cannot be imitated directly	81
16	Difficulties in distinguishing modes in mimotexts	85
17	Caricatures	89
18	Pastiches	98
19	Flaubert by Proust	103
20	Pastiche in the form of variations	120
21	Self-pastiche	124
22	Fictitious pastiches	128
23	The mock-heroic	133

24	Mixed parody	143
25	The antiromance	148
26	Play It Again, Sam	156
27	La Chasse spirituelle	158
28	Continuations	161
29	Endings for La Vie de Marianne and Le Paysan parvenu	165
30	La Fin de Lamiel	171
31	Cyclical continuations	175
32	The Aeneid, Telemachus	181
33	Andromaque, je pense à vous . . .	183
34	Unfaithful continuations	192
35	Murderous continuations	196
36	The Non-Existent Knight	200
37	Supplement	202
38	Sequel, epilogue, Lotte in Weimar	206
39	Generic reactivation	210
40	Transposition	212
41	Translation	214
42	Versification	218
43	Prosification	219
44	Transmetrification	225
45	Transtylization	226
46	Quantitative transformations	228
47	Excision	229
48	Concision	235
49	Condensation	237
50	Digest	246
51	Proust to Mme Scheikévitch	248
52	Pseudosummary in Borges	251
53	Extension	254
54	Expansion	260
55	Amplification	262
56	Ambiguous practices	269
57	Intermodal transmodalization	277
58	Laforge's Hamlet	282
59	Intramodal transmodalization	284
60	Rosenkrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead	292

61	Diegetic transposition, starting with sex	294
62	Proximization	303
63	Pragmatic transformation	311
64	Unamuno, author of Quixote	317
65	Motivation	324
66	Demotivation	328
67	Transmotivation	330
68	Eulogies of Helen	335
69	Secondary valuation	343
70	Primary valuation	350
71	Devaluation	354
72	Macbett	358
73	Aragon, author of Télémaque	360
74	Naissance de l'Odyssée	363
75	Transvaluation	367
76	Penthesilea	375
77	New supplements	377
78	A baffling hypertext	381
79	Hyperesthetic practices	384
80	End	394
	Appendix	401
	Notes	429
	Index	475

*The indications that follow chapter numbers are not titles, only guiding marks for those who need to be so guided,
and who may not find much guidance.*