

Contents

Acknowledgments

Preface and Acknowledgments vii

- This volume is the result of two years of collaboration. It began at the University of California in San Diego, in May of 2002, at a small research conference organized by the Center for Latin American and Latin American Studies. In that conference, Nancy Postero and Leon Zamosc and began our discussions about the diversity of indigenous struggles in Latin America. We thank CILAS for organizing the conference. A larger conference was held in Cochabamba, Bolivia, in May 2003, to include a wide variety of participants. We were very lucky to have a large group of participants from various organizations, including PROEIBandes and CEIDIS. PROEIBandes, Programa de Formación Intercultural Bilingüe Para los Países Andinos is a two-year master's program for indigenous leaders. We thank the organizers, Fernando Garcés for encouraging the project and getting it started, and engaged students involved. Many of the professors and members of their board presented their work and acted as advisors. We thank the organizers, Fernando Garcés for encouraging the project and getting it started, and engaged students involved. Many of the professors and members of their board presented their work and acted as advisors.
- 1 Indigenous Movements and the Indian Question in Latin America 1
Nancy Postero and Leon Zamosc
  - 2 From Indigenismo to Zapatismo: The Struggle for a Multi-ethnic Mexican Society 32
Gunther Dietz
  - 3 Beyond Victimization: Maya Movements in Post-war Guatemala 81
Edward Fischer
  - 4 Indigenous Struggles in Colombia: Historical Changes and Perspectives 105
Theodor Rathgeber
  - 5 The Indian Movement in Ecuador: From Politics of Influence to Politics of Power 131
Leon Zamosc
  - 6 Un País Sin Indígenas?: Re-thinking Indigenous Politics in Peru 158
María Elena García and José Antonio Lucero
  - 7 Articulations and Fragmentations: Indigenous Politics in Bolivia 189
Nancy Postero

8	Socialist Saudades : Lula's Victory, Indigenous Movements, and the Latin American Left Jonathan Warren	217
	The Contributors	232
	Index	234