

Contents

128 The Digital Begin (1995 - 2000)	128
132 The Big Thing (1995 - 2001)	132
133 End of the Device (2002 - 2010)	133
134 Specific Form of Contemporary Art	134
135 Collecting and the Art Market	135

Note to the English Edition	1
------------------------------------	----------

Prologue	15
-----------------	-----------

New Media Art	19
----------------------	-----------

The Terminology Issue	23
Genre or Movement?	24
Chronological Limits	25
What Does "New Media" Mean?	26
What Does "Medium" Mean?	29
A Medium-Based Definition?	30
New Media Art: a World Unto Itself	35
Art Worlds	37

A Brief History of the New Media Art World

The Sixties	47
The Seventies	55
The Eighties	60
The Early Nineties	69

Two Worlds Compared

Contemporary Art: the Idea of Art	85
Contemporary Art: the Artist	88
Contemporary Art: the Confines	90
Contemporary Art: the Value	92
New Media Art: the Idea of Art	96
New Media Art: the Artist	99
New Media Art: the Confines	102
New Media Art: the Value	103
Internet: a New Context for Art	105
Internet: the Artist	110
Internet: the Confines	113
Internet: the Value	117

The Boho Dance. New Media Art and Contemporary Art 121

Let the Dance Begin (1996 – 1998)	125
The Next Big Thing (1999 – 2001)	136
The End of the Dance (2002 – 2010)	146
Its Specific Form of Contemporaneity	149
Collecting and the Art Market	154

The Postmedia Perspective 177

A Few Notes On Curating	179
What Future for the New Media Art World?	192
The Postmedia Condition	199
After Art	207
Digital Natives	212
Other Critical Approaches	216
Conclusions	219

Appendix 1 225

Appendix 2

Collecting New Media Art

241

Appendix 3

Curating in the Information Age

249

Bibliography

261