

CONTENTS

Volume I: Mr Norrell

1 The library at Hurtfew	3
2 The Old Starre Inn	16
3 The stones of York	28
4 The Friends of English Magic	38
5 Drawlight	49
6 "Magic is not respectable, sir."	64
7 An opportunity unlikely to occur again	75
8 A gentleman with thistle-down hair	82
9 Lady Pole	92
10 The difficulty of finding employment for a magician	97
11 Brest	101
12 The Spirit of English Magic urges Mr Norrell to the Aid of Britannia	107
13 The magician of Threadneedle-street	118
14 Heart-break Farm	127
15 "How is Lady Pole?"	136
16 Lost-hope	145
17 The unaccountable appearance of twenty-five guineas	153
18 Sir Walter consults gentlemen in several professions	161
19 The Peep-O'Day-Boys	169
20 The unlikely milliner	176
21 The cards of Marseilles	183
22 The Knight of Wands	192

Volume II: Jonathan Strange

23 The Shadow House	209
24 Another magician	224
25 The education of a magician	234
26 Orb, crown and sceptre	247
27 The magician's wife	258
28 The Duke of Roxburghe's library	272
29 At the house of José Estoril	285

30	The book of Robert Findhelm	307
31	Seventeen dead Neapolitans	318
32	The King	341
33	Place the moon at my eyes	359
34	On the edge of the desert	369
35	The Nottinghamshire gentleman	374
36	All the mirrors of the world	386
37	The Cinque Dragownes	399
38	From The Edinburgh Review	411
39	The two magicians	415
40	“Depend upon it; there is no such place.”	430
41	Starecross	451
42	Strange decides to write a book	462
43	The curious adventure of Mr Hyde	472
44	Arabella	491

Volume III: John Uskglass

45	Prologue to The History and Practice of English Magic	495
46	“The sky spoke to me . . .”	500
47	“A black lad and a blue fella – that ought to mean summat.”	514
48	The Engravings	528
49	Wildness and madness	544
50	The History and Practice of English Magic	550
51	A family by the name of Greysteel	568
52	The old lady of Cannaregio	578
53	A little dead grey mouse	586
54	A little box, the colour of heartache	599
55	The second shall see his dearest possession in his enemy’s hand	615
56	The Black Tower	628
57	The Black Letters	642
58	Henry Woodhope pays a visit	647
59	Leucrocuta, the Wolf of the Evening	655
60	Tempest and lies	674
61	Tree speaks to Stone; Stone speaks to Water	687
62	I came to them in a cry that broke the silence of a winter wood	697
63	The first shall bury his heart in a dark wood beneath the snow, yet still feel its ache	703
64	Two versions of Lady Pole	721
65	The ashes, the pearls, the counterpane and the kiss	731

66 Jonathan Strange and Mr Norrell	740
67 The hawthorn tree	752
68 "Yes."	759
69 Strangites and Norrellites	772

Volume I

MR NORRELL