Suggested Reading	17
2 LOCATING TO MINIMIZE COSTS	18
Competitive Environments	18
Perfect competition	18
Oligopolistic competition	19
Monopolistic competition	19
A Simple Cost-minimizing Location Model	20
Step 1: Minimize transport costs	21
Step 2: Consider immobile inputs	24
Step 3: Consider the potential benefits of agglomeration	26
More about transport costs	26
Production Factors: Capital, Land, Labor	28
Financial capital as a locational factor	28
Land availability as a locational factor	29
Labor as a locational factor	29
Scale, Agglomeration, and Urbanization	32
Internal economies of scale	33

External economies of agglomeration	36
External economies and diseconomies of urbanization and localization	37
Input Substitution and the Indeterminacy of Location	37
Summary	38
Suggested Reading	39
3 LOCATING TO MAXIMIZE REVENUES AND PROFITS	40
Spatial Pricing Policies	40
Uniform delivered pricing	41
F.o.b. plant pricing	43
Spatial Competition	44
Minimizing Costs and Maximizing Revenues	47
Combining the concerns of cost minimization and spatial competition	47
Maximizing profit	50
Combining approaches	51

The Heterogeneity of Services	53
Reasons for Service Sector Growth	55
The "post-industrial society" thesis	56
Alternative explanations of service sector growth	56
Service Sector Labor Markets	60
Location of Service Activities	62
Summary	64
Suggested Reading	65
5 COMPARATIVE ADVANTAGE AND INDUSTRIAL LOCATION	66
Theories of Comparative Advantage	67
Ricardo's model of comparative advantage	67
The neoclassical model: the Heckscher–Ohlin theory	69
Comparative advantage and transportation costs	71
Comparative Advantage, Economic Base Analysis, and Local Economies	72
Location quotients and regional specialization	73
Export base analysis	75
Case study: General Motors' Saturn complex	85
Summary	91
Suggested Reading	91
6 TECHNOLOGY AND LOCATIONAL CHANGE	92
Variations in Technology	92
Technological change	92
Technology diffusion	93
Incremental Technological Change	94

Learning and experience curves	94
Technological change over the product life cycle	95
International product cycle	96
Industrial filtering	98
Case study: U.S. semiconductor components companies	99
Technological Change over the Long Run	100
General trends in industrial technology	100
Temporal and spatial clusters of technological change	101
Technological change away from mass production	102
Industrial location in an information age	106
The Geography of Technological Development	108
Where is technology developed?	108
Location of corporate and government R&amp;D	110
The geography of technology diffusion	111
Innovative regions	111
Summary	113
Suggested Reading	113
