

Contents

Introduction

What is Communicative Language Teaching?	1
Some characteristics of communicative activities	2
Communicative classroom interaction	3
Communicative materials and activities	3
What is a large class?	4
Confidence and conviction	6
How this book can help	6
Further Reading	7

1 A starting point

1.1 Finding out about the system	9
1.2 Learning names	10
1.3 Getting to know the students	13
1.4 Summary	19
1.5 Consolidation tasks	19
1.6 Further reading	20

2 Creating a productive environment

2.1 Discipline and order	21
2.2 A positive environment	21
2.3 Conventions and routines	22
2.4 Developing responsibility	25
2.5 Instructions	26
2.6 Other considerations for instructions	29
2.7 Instructions in the mother tongue	32
2.8 Increasing student involvement	32
2.9 Summary	36
2.10 Consolidation tasks	36
2.11 Further reading	37

3	Learner development	38
3.1	The starting point	38
3.2	Student expectations	38
3.3	Lockstep	39
3.4	Transmission or communication?	40
3.5	An approach to learner development	42
3.6	Introducing pair work	42
3.7	Introducing group work	45
3.8	Managing pair and group work	47
3.9	Monitoring pair and group work	47
3.10	Introducing communicative activities	50
3.11	The communicative continuum	50
3.12	The 'why' of learner training	53
3.13	Training monolingual classes	54
3.14	Summary	56
3.15	Consolidation tasks	56
3.16	Further reading	57
4	Communicative materials in the large class	58
4.1	Background	58
4.2	Characteristics of communicative activities	59
4.3	Exploiting the textbook	61
4.4	Using a narrative text	61
4.5	Improving dialogues	64
4.6	Some principles for materials adaptation	65
4.7	Adapting communicative techniques	71
4.8	Games and competitions	76
4.9	Summary	79
4.10	Consolidation tasks	79
4.11	Further reading	80
5	Coping with limited resources	81
5.1	Organising the classroom	81
5.2	Moving furniture	83
5.3	Using the board	84
5.4	Using the blackboard to save duplication	85
5.5	Words on the board	85
5.6	The board as a focal point for output	86
5.7	Using communicative activities without much duplication	87
5.8	Beyond print – ideas for creative language use	92
5.9	Student notebooks	94

5.10	Making material go further	95
5.11	Making wall pictures	96
5.12	The living wall	97
5.13	Student-produced materials	98
5.14	Bringing in the outside world	100
5.15	Summary	101
5.16	Consolidation tasks	102
5.17	Further reading	102
6	A way forward	104
6.1	Developing as a teacher	104
6.2	Developing your methodology	108
6.3	Mixed ability classes	108
6.4	Individualisation	109
6.5	Ideas for mixed ability classes	110
6.6	The rationale for project work	115
6.7	Introducing project work	116
6.8	A sample project	117
6.9	Ideas for project work	119
6.10	Feedback	120
6.11	Areas for feedback	120
6.12	Using a tape recorder	121
6.13	Summary and conclusion	122
6.14	Consolidation tasks	123
6.15	Further reading	124
	Bibliography	125
	Useful sources for classroom activities	127
	Contacts and exchanges	128