

ENLARGED EDITION OF A CLASSIC WORK ON THE SIGNIFICANCE OF PLACE

"Casey's contributions complement those [of other writers], but they surpass most extant works in their majestic breadth, depth, and scope, offering insightful analyses, careful explications, and creative re-readings of both environmental phenomena and historical texts."

—ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS

"This important and inspiring book is without question the most significant statement on place in our time."

—THEOLOGY TODAY

"Getting Back into Place offers an even more generous approach to place. According to Casey, we connect with a place merely by being attentive to it, open to its possibilities." —ENVIRONMENTAL HISTORY REVIEW

"This rich intervention in the current discourse among scholars in the humanities and social sciences asserts the pervasiveness of place in constructing culture and identity." —WORLD TRADE

"In descriptions of unprecedented scope, power, and concision, Casey illuminates brilliantly the vexing question crucial for our survival: What is our place in the domain we inhabit and in wilderness Nature?" —BRUCE WILSHIRE

What would the world be like if there were no places? Our lives are so place-oriented that we cannot begin to comprehend the loss of locality. Indeed, the space we occupy has much to do with what and who we are. Yet, despite the pervasiveness of place in our everyday lives, philosophers have neglected it.

Since its publication in 1993, Getting Back into Place has been recognized as a pioneering study of the importance of place in people's lives. This edition includes new material that reflects on the development of the field of environmental philosophy and presents Edward S. Casey's current thinking on place and home in our increasingly troubled world.

Edward S. Casey is Distinguished Professor at State University of New York at Stony Brook. His previous books include Imagining (Indiana University Press, 2nd ed., 2000), Remembering (Indiana University Press, 2nd ed., 2000), and The World at a Glance (Indiana University Press, 2007).

STUDIES IN CONTINENTAL
THOUGHT

STUDIES IN CONTINENTAL THOUGHT

JOHN SALLIS, EDITOR

Cover illustration: Christopher Saxton, "Wigorniensis" (Worcestershire), 1579

INDIANA
University Press
Bloomington & Indianapolis
www.iupress.indiana.edu
1-800-842-6796

ISBN 978-0-253-22088-2

9 780253 220882

Preface: Being before Place ix

Acknowledgments xix

Introduction to the Second Edition xxi

PART I FINDING PLACE I

1. Implacement 3

2. Displacement 22

PART II THE BODY IN PLACE 41

3. Directions 43

4. Dimensions 71

PART III BUILT PLACES 107

5. Two Ways to Dwell 109

6. Building Sites and Cultivating Places 146

PART IV WILD PLACES 183

7. The Arc of Desolation and the Array of Description 185

8. Going Wild in the Land 227

PART V MOVING BETWEEN PLACES 271

9. Homeward Bound: Ending (in) the Journey 273

EPILOGUE NEW WORK ON PLACE:
SPACE, TIME, AND HISTORY 315

How to Get from Space to Place in a
Fairly Short Stretch of Time 317

Smooth Spaces and Rough-Edged Places:
The Hidden History of Place 349

Notes 367

Index 465