Contents

Preface ix

1 Introduction: Writing in the Late Age of Print 1

The late age of print 1

The future of print 4

The old and the new in digital writing 7

Refashioning the voice of the text 10

Refashioning the writing space 12

2 Writing as Technology 14

Writing technologies and material culture 17

Economies of writing 21

3 Hypertext and the Remediation of Print 27

Word processing and topical writing 29

Hypertext 32

Writing as construction 36

Global hypertext 38

Hypertext as remediation 40

The old and the new in hypertext 44

4 The Breakout of the Visual 47

The image and the printed page 49

Visual metaphors 52

Ekphrasis 56

Picture writing 59

Electronic picture writing 61

The electronic page 66

5 The Electronic Book 77

The changing idea of the book 77

Great books 81

Encyclopedic order 83

The electronic encyclopedia 87

The library as a writing space 91

6 Refashioned Dialogues 99

The reading path 99

From dialogue to essay to Web page 104

The end of the line? 107

The hypertextual essay? 111

Educational dialogue 113

Multiple dialogues 117

7 Interactive Fiction 121

"afternoon" 124

The rhetoric of the multilinear 128

Displacement and repetition in "Victory Garden" 130

Disrupting the linear 137

The tradition of experiment 138
Sterne and the novel as conversation 140
James Joyce as hypertext 142
Borges and exhaustion in print 145
Composition No. 1 148
Multiple reading and writing 150
Digital poetry and performative texts 153
Hypermedia: popular and avant-garde 155

8 Critical Theory in a New Writing Space 161
Writing technologies and the literary critical tradition 162
The end of authority 165
Hypertext and poststructuralism 170
Reader response and the architecture of hypertext 171
Electronic signs 176
Deconstruction and electronic writing 179
New convergences and popular forms 183
Looking at and looking through 184
The practice of theory 186

9 Writing the Self 189
Writing as analysis 190
Writing the Cartesian mind 193
Hypertext and the Cartesian ego 196
Electronic writing and the postmodern self 197
The materiality of the electronic self 200

10 Writing Culture 203
The network culture 203

Cultural unity 205
The remediation of culture 208

11 The Web Site 214

References 215

Index 225