
Contents

Introduction	1
ONE
What Is Metaphysics and Why Do It?	5
TWO
The Discovery and Meaning of Being	25
THREE
Special Characteristics of Our Idea of Being as Transcendental and Analogous	42
FOUR
Unity as Transcendental Property of Being	60
FIVE
Being as One and Many: Participation in Existence through Limiting Essence	72
SIX
The One and the Many on the Same Level of Being: Form and Matter I	92
SEVEN
The World of Change: Act and Potency	109
EIGHT
Self-Identity in Change: Substance and Accident	123
NINE
Essential or Substantial Change: Form and Matter II	139

TEN
The Metaphysical Structures of Finite Being: An Interlocking Synthesis	150
ELEVEN
Being in Time: What Is Time?	161
TWELVE
The Extrinsic Causes of Being and Becoming: A. The Efficient Cause	178
THIRTEEN
The Extrinsic Causes of Being and Becoming: B. The Final Cause	199
FOURTEEN
The Final Unification of All Being: The Search for the Ultimate Source of All Being	212
FIFTEEN
The Metaphysics of Evolution	245
SIXTEEN
Being as Good	261
SEVENTEEN
Evil and Being	275
EIGHTEEN
The Transcendental Properties of Being: The Many Faces of Being	290
NINETEEN
The Great Circle of Being and Our Place in It: The Universe as Meaningful Journey	303
Glossary of Terms	315
Index of Names	321